Dick Moody, MM 1/c, Receives Citation For Outstanding Service

Dick Moody, MM first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Moody, who entered the service in 1940 as a volunteer, after graduating from high school, recently spent a 30-day leave with his parents on the Dellwood road.

He has had a wide experience since he entered the navy and took his boot training at Norfolk, Va., and was assigned to duty on the San Francisco, which was attacked at Pearl Harbor. He was among the crew that made the trip back on the riddled ship into San Francisco where they received an ovation.

In 1943 young Moody was sent to Submarine school in New London, Conn., and was assigned to the Flying Fish, which has made such a name for itself and was built in the Navy Yard at Portsmouth. The ship was launched on July 9, 1941, and was the first submarine to be commissioned after the start of the war. Since that time the ship has made 12 war patrols in all parts of the Pacific theater from Australia to the Kuriles and has accounted for 20 ships sunk for 93,342 tons and 12 ships damaged for 107,599 more tons.

Young Moody was still aboard the ship when she made her last patrol this past summer in Emperor Hirohito's back yard—the Sea of Japan.

He has received a number of awards and among them is the following citation:

The Commander in Chief, United States Pacific Fleet takes pleasure in commending Dick Moody, Motor Machinist's Mate second class, U. S. Navy for services as set forth in the following:

For meritorious conduct in action in the performance of his duties in the U. S. S. Flying Fish during the Twelfth War Patrol of that vessel in the Japan Sea from 29 May to 4 July 1945. As a member of the crew, his exceptional skill and proficiency at his battle station materially assisted his Homer West and Jack Hawkins. Mr. Mann, a native of Haywood county, resided at Clyde until about two years ago when he went to Detroit.

Surviving are the widow, one son, Bobby now in the navy; two brothers, P. C. Mann, of Clyde, and W. Dewey Mann, of Detroit; and one sister, Mrs. Jerry Robinson, of Canton.

Wells Funeral Home were in charge of the arrangement.

Rock Bath House Built At Lake

The wooden bath house at Lake Junaluska has been torn down and a modernistic rock building is being erected in its place.

Will Smith is in charge of the work, and will beautify the grounds in the area of the bath house.

Considerable rock work is being done at various places on the Lake. Recently a pool and fountain were completed in the famous Ivy gardens.

Some people try to afford attention by nastiness which merely shows what kind of people they are.

Commanding Officer in conducting attacks which resulted in sinking boats totaling 3,130 tons, and damaging two small tugs totaling 20 tons. His calm manner and devotion to duty contributed directly to the success of his vessel in evading enemy counter-measures. His conduct throughout was an inspiration to all with whom he served and in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service.
