Timely, Practical Household Suggestions

BY RUTH CURRENT

Brooms washed in medium soapy water, rinsed, and thoroughly dried, will keep in good condition and the wire will not rust.

Are you getting your money's worth in cleaning powder and soap? Are you putting enough soap in your washing machine to get the clothes clean and sparkling, but not more than is needed? Home management specialists say it takes about two inches of standing suds to get a load of clothes clean in the washing machine. A bit of experimenting with the measuring cup will show you how much soap it takes to make two inches of suds.

Every home laundress knows that soap makes suds more quickly if it is shaved, grated or pulverized. If your retail store is out of soap flakes or powders, you can make your own from bars of laundry soap, which is generally easier to find. Be sure the soap is well dried, cut it into pieces and run it through the meat grinder. Let it dry well, then pulverize. You may wish to use a grater or saw cutter to make flakes or chips. This may also serve as a thrifty way to use up small left-over bits of bar soap.

The whipping quality of cream depends on its age and its "richness" or butterfat content. Freshly separated cream does not whip well. It needs to stand and chill at least four hours. The whipping quality improves if it stands 24 hours. Cream sold by dairies for whipping will have sufficient aging when delivered.

If cream is to be kept after whipping, keep it in the coldest part of the refrigerator. How much cream to whip at a time depends on the size of the whipper. The usual small household beater does the best job with no more than a pint of cream. If larger quantities are to be whipped, time will be saved by whipping in successive batches.

An Important Message To Haywood Burley Growers

Tobacco sales will adjourn the 21st, and to permit buyers to clear up their heavy purchases, sales will not be resumed until January 7th.

Some complaint has been made as to reduced classification — Most of this, however, has been due to red and mixed grades, in some instances two or more grades tied in the same bundle. Due to the heavy offerings, handling facilities have been taxed to the utmost and labor being hard to obtain, buyers have no time to lose over mixed grades.

A percent of last year's crop was second growth and contained swelled stems, the moisture of which was not removed by the average heat applied in re-drying. As a result such parcels molded in the hogshead and had to be un-headed and again run through re-drying machines. It is only natural that graders are more cautious in classification of the Red leaf and mixed parcels.

Regardless of the facts named, average of the present crop up to this time is approximately 2c above that last year's crop.

Due to long experience of the N. C. growers in cultivating Flue Cured tobacco they classify and handle the Burley crops better than the average grower which always pays—As evidence of that, the N. C. growers have been awarded over half of the premiums this season, yet the total N. C. offerings consisted of less than 20 percent of the total sales of the Bernard Houses, Nos. 1 and 3.
