Remarque, the widely beloved author, of "ALL QUIET" which enjoyed one of the longest eras of popularity of any book at that time. This is a Book-of-the-Month selection and they are pretty good guides. The story is of Ravi, a German refugee doctor in Paris just before the war. Just for the excitement of the thing, Ravi performs several rather messy operations, carries on a love affair with Joan Madou (a night club entertainer) and looks for a Nazi official whom he has determined to kill. You can well imagine with what speed the book moves along and you find yourself gripping the book with one hand and the arm of the chair with the other. This book contains some very fine writing.

NEXT WEEK WE WILL TELL you about "BEFORE THE SUN GOES DOWN" by Elizabeth Metzger Howard; and "THOSE OTHER PEOPLE" by Mary King O'Donnell. They are to be released on January 24th. And for a whiz bang finish, we'll give you the report on one of the books that will be talked about. "WRITTEN ON THE WIND" by Robert Wilder.

YOU SEE, WE ARE GETTING all the advance data on the new books that are being released like fire crackers now that the paper ban for books has been lifted. Here is another book that the distributors assure us will be sent to us the day of release. It is "ARCH OF TRIUMPH" by Erich Maria

The Queen Mary To Carry Wives And Babies of GI's

The giant British liner Queen Mary completed her ninth and last crossing since V-E Day as an American troop carrier last week, and probably will be assigned soon exclusively to bringing back European war brides of American soldiers.

Before she enters the mother-and-baby service there are an estimated 40,000 G. I. brides and an uncounted number of children in Europe—the Queen Mary would have to undergo an extensive refitting in drydock in Southampton. She would have to be equipped with many hundreds of cribs, bottles, sterilizers, baby blankets, and perhaps some special utensils and talent for the evoking of baby foods.

British and American war and shipping officials who are working on the plans concede that the diaper problem alone is a staggering one. The Queen Mary, naturally, is not equipped with a diaper laundry service. Since used diapers could not be laundered aboard, would they be chucked over the side, leaving a white trail in the ocean from Southampton to New York? The plans have yet to be

G. I.'S FAMILIES TO ENTER EUROPE THROUGH BREMEN

FRANKFUR AM MAIN—United States army engineers are preparing plans to construct installations at Bremen to convert it into an entry port for the families of American occupation troops, an authoritative source disclosed recently.

The first soldiers' families may arrive by the end of May or the first of June, this source predicted. He added that committees have been appointed by European theater headquarters to study facilities for feeding and housing the families and educating the children. This planning is continuing while War Department approval is awaited.

Another group of officers, it was learned, is working on a priority plan for the shipment of soldiers' families, giving consideration to the length of time each soldier has agreed to stay overseas and the order of arrival of members of families.

As a troop carrier which brought in her 100,000th soldier recently to Pier 90 at Fiftieth street in the Hudson, the Queen Mary has carried more than 15,000 troops in a single crossing. However, not more than about 2,500 wives and children would be carried at the start. It doesn't hurt G. I.'s to be packed in like sardines and to eat in shifts at odd hours, but women and children would need more comfort and regular food. Under present plans, the Queen Mary would begin her first westward crossing with women and children about Feb. 1.
