But if the capitalist system remains a prolefarian system it won't be able to compete with the real or fancied greater security and equality of state capitalism. It must offer both more security and greater opportunity.

WHITE HOUSE DEPARTMENT—Walter Lippman

The Truman Cabinet is by any reasonable standard a good cabinet. In many ways it is a remarkably good cabinet. But the Winte House is deplorably weak, and since Mr. Truman is a modest and unpretentious man who must feel his way without benefit of much inspiration through a maze of problems, he has little hope of being a successful president if his own immediate official family remains what it now The blunt truth is that the men nearest him do not have enough brains, and have practically none of the wisdom which comes from experience and education, to help him to be the President of the

KINK IN DEMOCRACY—David Lawrence

Under the American system, the Congress can hold out for its view and the President can stick to his course and neither side can be held responsible by the people right away. The whole system needs streamlining.

With problems so acute that the whole reconversion program is being adversely affected, it is a confession of weakness in our system for a President of the United States to say he has done all he could to urge Congress to act and that he cannot do anything further about it.

The chief fact in the year ahead of us as far as our affairs here at home are concerned is a resistance to change. It is stiffening in the aftermath of war.

MAN'S GREATEST TASK-Eleanor Roosevelt

The building of a United Nations Organization is the way that lies before us today. Nothing else except security for all the peoples of the world will bring freedom from fear or destruction.

Security requires both control of the use of force and the elimination of want. No people are secure unless they have the things needed, not only to preserve existence, but to make life worth living. These needs may differ widely now. They may change for all, from time to time. But all peoples throughout the world must know that there is an organization where their interests can be considered and where justice and security will be sought for all.
