Timely, Practical
Household
Suggestions

Smart shopping is one way to make a dollar do a better job. Comparing prices among stores often brings savings. For the large family, buying large rather than small quantities may be another economy. Sales sometimes offer good bargains, if the shopper is a judge of quality. End-of-season buying often means savings in the cost of clothes. Or the family may buy with a group, thus getting goods at wholesale prices. Some things can be bought through cooperative buying associations, which are already established in many communities.

If the homemaker has a knack with a needle, she may make some of the clothes, curtains, or slip covers. Repairs, painting, and even simple furniture may be the contribution from the men in the family. Of course, says the family economist, when doing a job at home, make sure the saving is worth the time and effort it takes. Sometimes materials and equipment cost almost as much as the ready-made article. Also, if family members are inefficient in doing a job, they may waste valuable time and materials. But most people can readily learn some skills that are real money-savers.

Home-made fun is another thrift device. Home parties and pictures give the family good times at little cost.

Another way to stretch a dollar is to make full use of community services, such as parks, libraries, and public concerts. By finding out about and using local community health services, a higher level of health may be possible at little or no increased cost.

FIND DYNAMITE AT RAILWAY

NUERNBERG—The Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes" has reported that enough dynamite to rock a city block had been discovered between railway ties at the station of Furth, a suburb of Nuernberg. The track is used frequently by American Army trains. A German civilian tipped off the Army, "Stars and Stripes" said, and searchers found 100 pounds of dynamite and two five-foot Army bangalore torpedoes buried under a thin layer of dirt. The explosives were so rigged that pressure of a train on the track would detonate them.

CLEVER, AT THAT

In his snug little parlor the old Scottish clergyman was pointing out to a little company of his parishioners the manifest virtue of industry and application as opposed to mere cleverness. "Now ye tak' the McNab brothers, for instance," he explained. "Jock was a clever, handsome chiel. Harry was a fine plodding worker. The clever lad was left behind in the race for life; he is poor still. The worker was able to leave his widow over 60,000 pounds."

And then the minister's matter-of-fact wife spoiled it all by observing drily, "Ay, that is true. And I heard yesterday that the bright lad is going to marry the widow."

DAINGEROUS STUFF

Lem—How about a drink before we go huntin' that lion?
Clem—No thanks!
Lem—Aw, come on. It'll give you courage.
Clem—That's just what I'm afraid of. It'll give me too much courage.

Let It Bounce

Jones—That fellow White is just a good-for-nothing. Always trying to borrow money and never paying it back.
Smith—Yes, but there's one pleasure he always gives me. Every time he gives me a check I get it twice, once from him and once from the bank.

Cost A Dime

Harry—Well, I've got to go home and finish my first novel.
Jerry—I didn't know you could write.
Harry—Didn't you know I could read?

Dust to Dust

Housewife—Look at the dust on the mantel. Why, it's at least four weeks old.
New Maid—That's not my fault then, ma'am. I've only been here a week.

Fair Enough

Joe—What's the sign say in that store window all those people are picketing?
Bill—"Business going on as usual during altercations."

Here's Your Hat!

Harry—Did you have a good time at the party?
Jerry—I'll say. When I arrived everybody said "Hello" and when I left EVERYBODY said "goodbye."

Tough Guy

Dad—How many times must I tell you not to fight?
Son—Until some kid licks me!

Impossible!

He—But you don't think I'm a total loss?
She—No, you're not that good!

SOUNDS REASONABLE

Nit—There's one trouble with baking doughnuts. You can't cheat.
Wit—Why not?
Nit—Well the larger you make the holes, the more dough it takes to go around them.

Continual Shock

Brown—I always pay my income tax in four installments. It's certainly a big help.
Blue—Not for me. I have to pay mine all at once. My heart can't stand the shock four times a year.

Take Him Away

Ticket Girl—I'm sorry we don't have any more seats. Only two standing room left.
Worried—Only two left... in standing room. Are they together?

Collegiate

Her—What position did you say you played on the football team?
Him—Away back!
Her—Oh, thought you said left out!

Curvaceous

Mack—She tells me all she makes is pin money. But she certainly seems to get around.
Jack—I guess you haven't noticed her two pins!

You Said It!

Jane—I'd like to tell your girl how to wear her hair.
Joan—I'm sure she'd be all ears.
Jane—That's just the trouble.

Poor Excuse

Mother—It's time for all good little boys to be in bed.
Son—But don't you remember, mom, I wasn't good today.

Double Meaning

Author—I threw away that story I wrote yesterday.
Editor—Threw it away? That's the best thing you ever did.

Farm Marketings

Advertising isn't perfect

Some advertisements are better than others, just as some show windows are better than others.

Or as some salesmen are better than others. So advertising isn't perfect, but it does a better job than anything else yet discovered.

It tells you what is to be had, and where to buy it, and is the cheapest way of doing this job.

The MOUNTAINEER

Pin-up Boy!

YES, Reddy Kilowatt (your electrical servant) is a hero to many, many smart electrical living homemakers. And, for good reason!

It is electricity that makes possible the "absentee cooking" that gives hours of added leisure time—that produces those nourishing, full size meals so quickly, so cleanly. And, it is electricity that provides better food preservation—and deep freeze storage. It cleans the house, keeps it cool in summer and controls the heating in winter—it brings entertainment by radio, beautifies the home and banishes eyestrain with good light. It can wash the dishes and do away with the garbage... and wash and iron the clothes.

No wonder Reddy Kilowatt, who typifies your electrical service, is the pin-up boy of those who know him best. It would be a good idea for you to let Reddy relieve you of some of that household drudgery. See your electrical dealer soon—the new appliances are beginning to be delivered.
