

Lindsay C. Warren Terms Finances Alarming

Carolinian As Controller General, His Views Situation

Fred M. Vinson, now secretary of the treasury, were congressional buddies.

"Lindsay," remarked an old Democratic pal, "apparently takes his job seriously, although he wasn't supposed to when he was appointed. I know."

Here is the particular indictment which angers leading Democrats:

"Naturally," says Mr. Warren in an article in "Tax Front," a comparatively obscure publication, "my own concern has been directed to the fantastic fiscal effect of that trend, (the centralization of power at Washington—Ed note).

"Through 10 years of plodding escape from the slough of depression, through four years of underwriting and then actively waging history's greatest war, our Federal balance has reached such a state as any honest man must call an alarming one."

SIDESWIPE — The men most severely spanked by the Comptroller General in subsequent paragraphs of his article have departed from Washington. They and or were fired soon after President Truman took over the White House. But their ideas live on in certain high places, and they are repugnant to the modest, conservative man from North Carolina.

"The free spending philosophers," he continues in an apparent side-swipe at the Roosevelt-Morgan-Hopkins-Niles-Ickes group, "who insist that an enormous back-breaking national mortgage is a good thing, call anyone an alarmist who is brazen enough to recite the facts."

"What are the facts? To speak in billions of dollars and nationwide totals (now $280,000,000,000), is only a way to escape the uncomfortable realities, to lull us into the feeling that it will be somebody else's burden."

Privately, Mr. Warren hopes that his old friend, Treasury Secretary Vinson, and President Truman will read or reread "David Copperfield."

Right-Eyed, Left-Eyed But Not Cock-Eyed

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Are you right-eyed or left-eyed? Here's a simple way to test yourself, suggested by Bausch & Lomb Optical Company scientists:

Tear a hole the size of a quarter in a sheet of paper and hold it at arms length. Looking through the hole, with both eyes open, fix your eyes on some object across the room. Now gradually draw the paper toward you until it touches your face. The hole will be over one eye. If you're left-eyed, it will be the left-eye; and the right eye if you're right-eyed.

Scientists say that in every person one eye is dominant, but that doesn't mean the other eye is weaker; in fact it may be the stronger. They've also discovered that right-handedness doesn't necessarily pair with right-eyedness. You were just born with one dominant eye.

PITTSBURGH HOSPITAL READY FOR POWER STRIKE

IF THE DUQUESNE LIGHT COMPANY WORKERS go on strike and cause a shutdown of power in Pittsburgh, the Shadyside Hospital is ready to meet the emergency. Here a sixty-horsepower Diesel generator, purchased from Army surplus, is uncrated for installation at the hospital. The union, representing 3,400 workers, seeks a wage increase of 29 cents an hour. The company has offered 7 1/2 cents. (International Soundphoto)

Monthly Reports Show Decline in Prisoners

Separations exceeded admissions during February and the number of convicts in prison in North Carolina declined from 6,218 to 6,201, Penal Director Clyde O. Robinson reported this week.

There were 700 separations, including 36 escapes and 663 admissions, including the return of 33 convicts who had escaped.

Robinson reported that 579 prisoners completed their sentences, 45 were paroled, and 37 were released by court order. One died and two were sent to institutions. The paroles of seven convicts were revoked.
