A Nation Demands a King

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—1 Samuel 8-10.

When Samuel was an old man, he made his sons judges, but they "walked not in his ways," but took bribes and so the people went to Samuel and demanded that he give them a king to rule over them.

Samuel took the matter to the Lord and was directed to give the people a king of His choosing. Now there was a young man named Saul, a Benjamite, who was sent out with his servant to find his father's asses.

Saul and his men could not find the asses, but in their wanderings they came to Samuel's city and went to ask his advice. When Samuel saw Saul he knew he was the man chosen by the Lord to be king.

At Samuel's direction the tribes of Israel gathered, and Samuel singled out the Benjamites and pointed out the tall young Saul as the one the Lord had chosen to be their king.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 33:12.

The Golden Text

Samuel anointing Saul.

"Blessed is the nation whose God is Jehovah"—Psalm 33:12.

The Everyday Counselor

—By—

REV. HERBERT SPAUGH, D. D.

We fear the unknown, and distrust the uncertain. That's what is the matter with the world today. We have just finished fighting a global war. We learned to fight with and against strange peoples all over the world, but we haven't yet learned how to know those people.

Every church spire which you see pointing heavenward, is a symbol of this certainty. Every church bell which you hear ringing, is a reminder of the eternal gospel of Jesus Christ. This gospel has led thousands, millions, to certainty and security during this last two thousand years. There is no reason to believe that it has changed in our lifetime. Where our forefathers found help, we can find it.

Occasionally I spend a night in Winston-Salem, N. C., my birthplace. Down in the old town, Salem, is the 146-year-old Home church. This was the church of my childhood. It's bell, which is even older than the building, still rings out the call to services, and strikes out the hours of the church clock. Whenever I hear that bell, it brings fresh rest and peace in my soul, for it reminds me of the unchangeable gospel of Jesus Christ, which I learned as a boy within the venerable walls of this church. It is that gospel which has brought peace and happiness to many who too have listened to that bell, and to countless thousands now in the Father's House.

Why be uncertain when you can be certain? Every church spire which you see pointing heavenward, is a symbol of this certainty. Every church bell which you hear ringing, is a reminder of the eternal gospel of Jesus Christ. This gospel has led thousands, millions, to certainty and security during this last two thousand years. ## Home-Made Country Sausage

By BETSY NEWMAN

IF YOU have ever lived on a farm and know what real home-made country sausage is, it will make your mouth water to think of it. Sausage making is one of our oldest arts, and sausages are of many kinds and offer many possibilities for the home-maker who has ideas on the subject or for the one who is always looking for new ideas to please the family palate.

Today's Menu Breakfast Cooked Prunes Oatmeal Top Milk Whole Wheat Toast Poached Eggs Coffee Luncheon Sausage with Squash or Sausage with Pancakes Raw Vegetable Salad Cookies Milk Dinner Savory Seasoned Veal Chops Riced Sweet Potatoes Lima Beans Celery Pickles Apple Pie Tea or Coffee Sausage and Squash 1 lb. bulk pork 4 small acorn sausage squash

To make coating for meat, mix bread crumbs, mustard, salt, brown sugar, poultry seasoning, and pepper. Wipe veal chops with damp cloth, dip in flour, then in egg, which has been beaten and diluted with 2 tsp. water. Roll in bread crumbs and brown well on both sides in hot lard. If heavy frying pan is used, simply cover chops without adding liquid and cook slowly over low burner until tender, about 45 mins. Or add 1/4 c. hot water before covering.

Sunday School Lesson

A Nation Demands a King

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 31 is 1 Samuel 8-10, the Memory Verse being Psalm 33:12, "Blessed is the nation whose God is Jehovah.")

WHEN SAMUEL became old he appointed his two sons judges, but, like Eli's sons, they "walked not in his ways, but turned aside after hure, and took bribes, and perverted judgment."

Tired of this, the elders of the people went to Samuel and told him he was old and his sons "walk not in thy ways: now make us a king to judge us like all the nations."

Samuel did not like the idea, but he prayed to the Lord for guidance, and Jehovah told him to give them a king, but to tell them what such a ruler would mean. So Samuel called the people together and told them that the Lord had said they could have a king, but he would "take your sons and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen and some shall run before his chariots."

A king would take captives and they would reap his harvest and make his instruments of war. He would take the daughters of the people and make them perfumers, cooks and bakers; he would take their fields and vineyards and give them to his servants, would take a tenth of their seed, their menservants and maidservants, etc., and some day they would cry out and refuse to obey the voice of Samuel. Still the people said, "Nay, but we will have a king over us."

Now there was a man of the name of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin, who had a son whose name was Saul. Saul was a fine, handsome young man whose head and shoulders towered above the crowd. Now some of Kish's asses were lost, and he told Saul to take a servant and go to look for them. So the two started out and traveled a great way, but saw no sign of the asses, and Saul said to his man that they had better start for home or his father would be worried about him.

The man said that nearby was a man of God and maybe he could tell them the way they should go. Saul said what would they take the man for a present, as they had nothing? The man said he had the fourth part of a shekel of silver to give him, so they started to find Samuel. They found young maidens going out to draw water, and these said they were just in time to see Samuel, as he was going up to the high place to eat.

The Lord had told Samuel that at that time the man he had chosen for king would come to him, so when he saw Saul, the Lord said to Samuel, "Behold, the man whom I spake to thee of! This same shall reign over My people."

Samuel invited Saul to eat with him and he was given a special portion, and Samuel told him the asses were found and on the morrow he would tell him what was in his heart. They arose early next morning and went to the house-top, and then went abroad and sent the servant ahead, but Saul Samuel told to stand still. Then Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, and kissed him and said, "Is it not because the Lord hath anointed thee to be captain over His inheritance?" Then he told Saul what would happen to him on his way home, and it all came out as Samuel said.

The Spirit of the Lord descended upon Saul and when he beheld a company of prophets, Saul, too, was moved to prophesy with them, so that the friends and neighbors who heard him asked one another, "What is this that has come into the son of Kish? Is Saul also among the prophets?"

Tribes Called Together Samuel called all the tribes of Israel together to Mizpeh. The Lord had said he told them that He alone had brought them up out of the slavery of Egypt and had delivered and saved them, but they had rejected Him and demanded a king to rule over them. When the tribes were assembled, Samuel took the tribe of Benjamin to be near him, then the family of Matri, then called Saul, son of Kish, but Saul could not be found. When Samuel asked the Lord about Saul's whereabouts, he was told, "Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff."

Saul was brought out from his hiding place. He was a modest man, it seems, asking Samuel at first, "Am I not a Benjamite, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel, and my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? wherefore then speakest thou so to me?" Here he stood among his people, and "he was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward."

"And Samuel said to all the people, See him whom the Lord hath chosen: that there is none like him among all the people? And all the people shouted and said, God save the king!"

Then Samuel told the people of their new kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and "laid it up before the Lord."

Saul went home to Gibeah, and a band of men, whose heart God had touched went with him. But the children of Belial said, "How shall this man save us? And they despised him, and brought him no presents. But he held his peace."
