

Inspection Made Of Fontana Lake Shoreline Areas

BRYSON CITY—A boat trip was taken last week around a part of the 4,500-acre shoreline of Fontana lake, owned by the TVA, by H. E. Hudson, of the reservoir property management department. Harry Wilberson, recreation technician, George Marsch, community planner, all of the Knoxville TVA office; Tom Morse, superintendent of North Carolina State parks; P. A. Griffiths, division of forestry, F. H. Claridge, assistant to the director of the division of forestry, all of Raleigh, and a group of Bryson City citizens.

The party embarked on a coast guard boat operated by Jack Kirkland, forester, from Grassy Branch. They spent four and one-half hours in the boat and saw many sites for development, they report. They said an especially fine place for development is where the Almond school formerly stood. This site had been suggested as the result of a previous inspection as a site for a girls and boys camp.

The tour started in the Tuckasee river, then several miles of the Little Tennessee was inspected. They went on the Nantahala beyond old Almond, then back on the Tuckasee to Epps Springs, an old highway 234, where they landed and returned to Bryson City by automobile.

A meeting was held in the community house to discuss plans for developing some of the sites but no definite action was taken.

New Cigarette Price Does Not Hit Single Packs

The increase in cigarette prices does not affect "over the counter" sales of single packages, the OPA pointed out, adding that the half-cent boost per pack is effective only on over-the-counter sales of two packs or more.

These retail price increases result from increases granted cigarette manufacturers because of rising production costs, OPA said.

Retail prices on the "economy" brands—Avalons, Marvels, Twenty Grands and Wines—now ceiling-priced at 13c a package, two packs for 25c, are increased to a straight 13c per pack, OPA said, adding that state taxes are not included in setting cigarette ceilings.

"Popular" brands—including Camels, Chesterfields, Lucky Strikes, Raleighs and all other cigarettes not specifically named—retain present ceilings on single-pack over-the-counter sales, but the price jump applies on sales of two packs or more, OPA pointed out. For example, a dealer selling these brands at 16c per pack, two packs for 30c or 31c, will still retain the 16c single-pack price, but may increase his two-pack price by one cent, the agency explained.

At the same time, OPA announced that cigarettes sold through automatic vending machines are increased one cent per package, since data submitted by vending machine operators shows that their absorption of manufacturer's increase would drop their profits below pre-war base levels.

Gold Output

In the last 60 years, South Africa's gold output totaled several billion dollars. Before the war this highly organized and mechanized industry was producing as much as 300 tons of gold a year. The particles of gold mined are so small as to be hardly visible, and are distributed through rock that must be crushed. It takes 125,000 tons of rock to yield a ton of gold.
