

Rules Covering Veteran's Housing Program In County

Under the Veteran's Housing Program designed primarily to furnish housing for veterans, restrictions have been placed on the construction of buildings costing more than $1,000 and all dwellings costing more than $400, R. C. Francis, chairman of the Haywood County AAA Committee said here yesterday in explaining that the main objective of the restrictions at this time is to get low-cost living units as fast as possible.

"Applications for the construction of all farm buildings in Haywood county should be filed at the local AAA office," Mr. Francis said, "and the final approval of the applications rest with the State AAA Committee in Raleigh."

Data such as materials needed, total cost of all new materials, labor costs, and the necessity for the building will be requested, Mr. Francis explained.

The AAA chairman pointed out that approval of the proposed construction will be based on whether it is essential to increasing or maintaining production of food on the farm, whether present facilities on the farm are being utilized to maximum capacity and whether the proposed construction will be fully utilized upon completion.

A copy of the approved application will be returned to the applicant accompanied by a placard to be posted on the construction site. In the case of farm dwellings, priority ratings for the purchase of needed materials may also be issued by the State AAA committee.

The county and State AAA committees have the final approval of all farm constructions up to $10,000 for a single dwelling, $17,000 for a double family dwelling, and $50,000 for barns and other constructions.

G. T. Scott, chairman State AAA Committee, reports that approximately 300 applications have already been received in the state office and are now being processed as rapidly as possible.

OPA BATTLE IN FINAL STAGE

WITH THE FINAL WEEK OF HEARINGS in the OPA fight under way before the Senate Banking Committee in Washington, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is shown testifying. Green argued for continued price controls. With hundreds of thousands of wires and letters flooding the Capitol, some sort of compromise on the controversial issue is soon expected. Extension Service Cites Care Of Wood

The following instructions regarding the care and preparation of wool for the market are recommended by the State Extension Service, according to the county farm agent.

Wool must be properly clipped, carefully prepared and handled for it to bring its full value. Some one has said that wool is the most valuable crop produced on the farm and the most carelessly handled. The following suggestions, if followed by sheep men should insure more money for the wool clip.

Have shearing equipment in good order well ahead of shearing time. For repairs and equipment to factories. Also send old combs and cutters to factory for sharpening. For new equipment see your local dealer.

Never shear when wool is wet. If wool gets damp spread it out to dry before bagging it. Shear on clean floor and avoid getting straw, manure or trash of any kind in the wool.

Avoid second cuts. Cut close and keep fleece unbroken. Through fleece with paper twine to be safe out. There will be a premium paid for wool properly baled this year. Don't use sisal or binder twine. This will result in a collection of 10 cents per pound.

Take out tags, dung locks, out of the fleece. Pack these together with 25 cents in a separate bag. Pack Black, Dirty, Dead, Cotted Wool or rejects of any kind in separate bags properly marked. Keep fine or half blood wool from western sheep and lambs wool separate from medium grade wool.

9 Vets Arrested For Playing Ball In School Yard

BOSTON—Nine World War Two veterans and a companion are back in the good graces of the law after being arrested for using a school yard for a softball game.

After the former GIs had been freed by the district judge of charges of trespassing on tulips Sunday evening, City Councilor Thomas Hannon of Dorchester quipped:

"It looks as though there's too much attention paid to tulips in our city and not enough to our veterans."

The youths were seized by six policemen while they were practicing for an impending park department league game. The clerk of the superior court, Thomas Dorgan, who had bailed all the vets in $50 each, observed acidly:

"All promises to veterans these days are like a Killarney rose—soon forgotten."

Farmer Finds New A Sloppy Job For Rural Mailman

WINCHESTER, Va.—A Winchester rural mail carrier found this note attached to a mail box along his route: "I've gone to the Mount Olive picnic. Would you please slop the hogs? You'll find the meal in the barrel behind the pen. Mix with three buckets of slop. The slop is in the barrel in front of the pen." The mail carrier obliged.

Ellis, conducting a recent ditch blasting demonstration using 50 per cent nitro-glycerin dynamite and electric firing machine, set the charges and blew the ditch in less than an hour. In a few seconds the flying earth had settled and there was the clean ditch, all finished with 45-degree sides and no sign of a spoil bank. The 120-odd farmers watching the blast were past three months, says that farmers can and are using dynamite in blasting their own drainage openings and clearing fields of stumps. He says that the practice is safe, practical and inexpensive in addition to saving long hours of hard-to-get labor. He lists two prime safety precautions: use the electric method for setting off charges, and use a wooden, rather than a metal rod to tamp charges into blast holes.

The average cost of a ditch two and a half feet deep is eight cents per foot, three and a half feet deep, 13 cents per foot, Ellis says. Either he or any county agent will advise farmers about dynamite ditching or will arrange farm demonstrations.

No Shortage Of Pork At One Farm

JACKSONVILLE — Somehow, the prospect of a serious meat shortage apparently was conveyed to B. Z. Morton's spotted Poland China sow . . . because, the sow gave birth to a litter of 18 pigs. Eight is the number usually considered a good litter.

Morton, who resides near Jacksonville, was in town recently seeking information on how and what to feed the little pigs, all of which are still living but presenting a definite problem at feeding time.

Definition of Co-Insurance

"A coinsurance clause is, in effect, an agreement by the holder to maintain his insurance up to a specified percentage of actual value of the property. By making this agreement he secures a lower insurance rate. But if he fails to keep his insurance up to the amount required by the agreement, he will only be able to collect a portion of his loss.

"For example, an owner who, five years ago, was adequately insured by a $40,000 policy with an 80 per cent coinsurance clause might find that the present value of the property is $100,000. In the event of a $50,000 and in a settlement of $10,000 partial loss, he would be entitled to receive only one-half of $10,000, or $5,000 on a $10,000 claim.

"Underinsurance applies with like force to every line of insurance. Jury awards are higher. Third party liability claims, which formerly could have been settled for $2,000 now require $3,000 or more.

"Thirty claims under burglary insurance policies, picked at random, showed the total property stolen exceeded $100,000. The insurance company paid the full policy limit but because the owners had not carried enough insurance, they recovered less than $50,000."
