

THE BOOK CORNER

—With—
FRANCES GILBERT FRAZIER

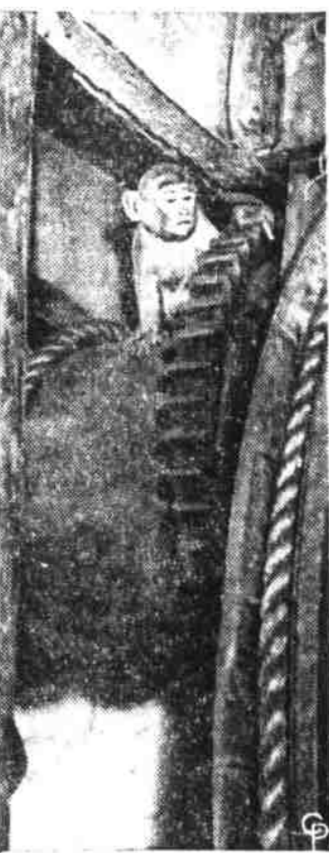

more smoothly than you had anticipated. AT LONG LAST! You remember those fateful words of quite a few years ago, when the Prince of Wales said farewell to his theme? Well, we can say them delightedly now for we have received a book that has long been needed, and could come at no better time than when economy and patience in food selection is so drastically needed. The book by Lily Wallace is "JUST FOR TWO" and gives recipes and amounts needed for those two-some (also toothsome) meals.

And right along with the book for two, is another cook book that will give ideas for the two and will also help select menus for ten or more—or less. It is very attractively gotten up and would make an ideal graduation or wedding present. BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS have put out one of the best cook books on the market, and it has the added feature that new recipes can be added with each issue of the BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS magazine. More than two million of these cook books have been sold and their popularity grows with the months. They are a "Must" for every kitchen and a necessity for the new bride who has to learn from the ground up.

No Longer Funny

NO TIME for monkey business now, ponders this runaway who finds himself at the top of an elevator in an old New York building. The following little fellow is one of a hundred East Indian monkeys that managed to escape from a pet shop in Manhattan's downtown area. For two days they had police and hundreds of civilians making monkeys of themselves trying to recapture escaped simians. (International)

Woman Listed As Dead Is Enjoying Life

SHELBY — Mrs. Roscoe Lutz, wife of a local funeral director, is enjoying life thoroughly these days. Mr. Lutz, while attending the State Funeral Directors convention in Raleigh last week, found that somehow the national association had listed Mrs. Lutz as dead during the past year, and she was scheduled to be memorialized during the convention program. He put 'em straight promptly.

S/Sgt. Bill Swift Has Been Transferred

S/Sgt. Bill Swift, son of Capt. and Mrs. W. F. Swift, who has been stationed at Camp Swift, Tex., has been transferred to Camp Carson, Colo. Sgt. Swift served for eight months on combat in the European theater and has been back in the states for several months. He entered the service two years ago at the time he had been employed for several years at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

Intensive Farmers

Balinese are masters of intensive farming. Three crops of rice a year are usual. Terraces for paddies rise from warm valley floors high up on the slopes of the hills—a hanging garden effect when seen from a distance. Sugar cane, coffee, tobacco, indigo and cotton are grown in quantities. Coconut palms and Tamarinds sway over island paths. Fruits in variety are staple produce. European vegetables are upland specialties.

VOTE for PROGRESS

WE NEED:

Industrial expansion. Additional plants mean more jobs for our people and less taxes against our property.

Increased tourist business. To this end we must work for greater development of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, and for construction of proper highways to this great outdoors playground. To further this, I propose a meeting of Congressmen from North Carolina and Tennessee, that we may profit by joint effort.

Agricultural advancement. Natural advantages here for dairying, orcharding, truck and general farming are unsurpassed, and our farmers must be supported in their activities that count so heavily in making mountain Carolina a better and better place to live.

Cooperation among our Chambers of Commerce, our Boards of Commissioners and other groups, that our section may be adequately advertised and its glories made known to the world.

encouragement for our young people, that they may assume with enthusiasm opportunities for leadership now unfolding to them. Particularly would I mention the need for more Junior Chambers of Commerce, and the vigorous undertaking of community projects for which they are so well qualified.

ELECTED TO CONGRESS

As Congressman, I feel, should play a major role in all these moves; he must lend a helping hand in every community-improvement project in his district. If elected to Congress, I expect to give our people this active kind of representation. Are you satisfied with present conditions? You have the opportunity now to vote for a change!

Further, I propose that our GI's and other veterans be given service not extended in any District in our country. You know my plans to appoint a secretary who will be a veteran and familiar with the laws affecting veterans, and who will live in the District and be available to veterans and their dependents at all times.

After educational advantages for the youth of the State is another cause for which I shall labor. Hence, I will support Federal assistance to our schools, and to raise educational standards without imposing increased state taxes on citizenship.
