

Redden Promises Active Representation To Area

Urging a stronger regional unity and a vigorous program to build and develop the potential resources of Western North Carolina, Monroe M. Redden, candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative from the 12th congressional district, made an election-eve statement in which he urged the citizens of North Carolina to shake off the shackles of inaction and go after some of the opportunities that are offered now.

"Those who ask you to wait two years before you undertake to get a more vigorous representation in congress, are asking you to postpone for two years the steps that should be taken now if this section is to keep pace with other resort areas," Mr. Redden declared.

"They are asking you to stand on the sidelines and watch the parade go by instead of pitching in and going after the things this section should and must have."

"We need more industrial plants which will mean more jobs for our people and less taxes against our property."

"We need to expand our tourist business and develop the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and construct proper highways leading into the Park. To this end I propose a meeting of the congressmen from North Carolina and Tennessee, so that we may jointly advocate the development of this Park.

"We need to exploit our agricultural advantages so that the farmer can enjoy a better standard of living. We need to remove certain restrictions from the farmer so that he may have freer action in his efforts."

"We need to cooperate with our Chambers of Commerce, our Boards of Commissioners and our public-spirited citizens, in order to advertise and build up our great mountain country. We need to encourage our young people as they gradually assume the leadership in their respective communities. We need more Junior Chambers of Commerce, more public-spirited cooperation on the part of officials. Your Congressman should be a part, in fact, a great part of these endeavors. He needs to do more than make laws. He needs to help make a better community. He should be a builder, the architect of this district. Are you satisfied with present conditions? Why wait and wait and wait. The opportunity is yours now if you vote for a change."

"If elected to Congress I expect to give the people of this district active representation. I shall see that the GI's and other veterans are furnished a Congressional service unsurpassed in any district in the United States. To this end I shall appoint a secretary who will live in the district all the time and who may be contacted by these veterans and their dependents at any time they are in need of the services of their Congressman. This will prevent many trips to Washington. It will shorten the time and work required to be of assistance to them. It will be a constant contact with your Congressman's office. This secretary will also be a veteran who is familiar with the laws affecting veterans and their dependents. In order to assure the veterans of their organization to recommend some man for the youth of our state. To this end I will actively support Federal assistance to our schools in order that our standards of education may be raised without extra state tax upon our people."

GOT HIS STRIPES

There seemed to be nothing in the world that Private Sawtell couldn't do. Around Manila, where he served, they called him "the most versatile man in the army."

One day, when an officer wanted a haircut and the barber was away, Private Sawtell volunteered to do the job.

"Were you ever a barber?" asked the officer.

"Yes, sir," replied Sawtell. "I was a barber for three years."

A few days later another officer, heartily tired of the regular camp rations, wanted a special dish prepared.

"I can prepare it, sir," said Private Sawtell, smiling.

"Did you ever cook?" he was asked.

"Yes, sir; three years' experience, sir."

The dish was marvelous. Three days later the colonel's horse threw a shoe. Sawtell fixed it. After that he was, successively, dentist, letter-writer, watch-repairer, leading tenor in the camp show, and a dozen other things. In all these tasks he claimed long experience, and in all he served superlatively well.

One day the colonel called Sawtell into his office.

"Sawtell," said the colonel, "I have a warrant for your arrest. Seems you're badly wanted back in the United States. You have been a particularly valuable man, Sawtell, and I hate to lose you, particularly as you will have to go to prison."

"Oh, that's all right, colonel," replied Sawtell. "I've had experience—four years in Leavenworth."

94 Per Cent Of Haywood Farms Have Mapped Out Plans For Current Year

A recent summary made of 1946 Farm Plans filed with the Haywood County AAA committee, as requested for assistance through the 1946 Agricultural Conservation program, reveals that 94 per cent of the county's 3,000 farm operators have mapped out their plans for the current year.

According to R. C. Francis, chairman, Haywood County AAA committee, approximately 8,000 tons of limestone and 3,800,000 pounds of phosphate are expected to be used under the 1946 program. The county committee estimate that 60 per cent of the lime and 80 per cent of the phosphate will be used to increase the grazing capacity of pasture land. The rest of the lime and phosphate will be used to improve the quality of crops and to promote the growth of winter cover crops that will aid in retarding erosion.

Mr. Francis said that the amount of limestone now being used on Haywood County farms is three times greater than was used in 1936 and phosphate twelve times greater. "Despite this fact," Mr. Francis added, "it is only a small part of the amount which should be used each year to bring our cropland and pasture to maximum production."

Over 100,000 pounds of winter

cover crop seeds are expected to be used in the county this fall to improve the soil and protect it during the winter months. Approximately 600.0 acres are expected to be planted in Austrian winter peas; 2,000.0 acres to crimson clover; 1,000.0 acres to vetch; and 100.0 acres in ryegrass.

Seventy-five per cent of the county's allocation of funds were used last year but this year, under the more flexible method of administering the program—with assistance based on the need for conservation and the operator's ability to perform the practices—it is expected that 100 per cent of the county's allocation of $73,813.00 will be used.

The final date for filing 1946 Farm Plans was extended by the state committee to June 1st. All farmers in the county who have not yet filed their farm plans with local committees are urged to do so immediately. No practices can be approved for payment unless they have been listed on the farm plan and filed by this date.

RIPE OLD AGE

Nit—That parrot is ninety-five.
Wit—He's awfully green for his age.

Bank Failure

Cashier—Hey, you men, you'd better hurry up and pick up that safe you dropped on the sidewalk. The president of the bank won't like it.

Movers—So what? Where is he?
Cashier—Under the safe.

Nice Work

Nit—A fellow pushed my grand uncle off a scaffolding and killed him and got paid for it.

Wit—You're crazy. Why should they pay anyone for that?

Nit—He was the hangman.

Very Odd

Joe—Now just how could your brother be drowned right in the middle of Broadway? It just isn't possible.

Bill—Simple. He just fell into an open manhole.

NO RESEMBLANCE

Mr. Jones—Do you think you can paint a good portrait of my wife?
Artist—Well, it's good, it won't be of your wife.

Cold Sober

Harry—Don't you always have complete control of yourself when you're driving?

Jerry—Not always. Quite often my wife is with me riding in the back seat.

Bang Bang Ouch

Jones—Was that your wife I heard exploding last night over at your house?

Smith—Yes. I had some powder on my coat collar.

Baby Talk

Mother (with baby's bottle)—How would you like to watch me feed her, Jimmy?
Young Jim—Feed her? Sure! To what?

Sounds Good

Brown—I'm glad to see you're up from your operation so soon.

Blue—Yes, the doctor said I had wonderful powers of vituperation.

Keep Your Glasses On

Diner—The last time I ate here the grapefruit was terrible.

Walter—Wait till you get an eyeful of this one!

Papa Pays

Wife—I just got another new hat. How do you like it?
Hubby—That's the last straw!
Wife—How did you guess it?

Time for Bluing

Authorities agree that the soapsuds which loosen soil are likely to send bluing down the drain along with dirty suds. So the best time to use bluing is in the very last rinse.
