Bowmans Cannot Bear Friendly Gestures Of Mountain Family

While making a tour of the Great Smokies recently, a Conover, N. C., druggist, Carl Bowman, and his family had the pleasure of meeting a native-born mountain family of bears.

After a vacation stay at Gatlinburg, the Bowmans were riding home through the mountains when they noticed a large black bear coming down from the forest to the road. Mr. Bowman stopped the car so his daughters could get a better look at their new playmate, and the bear came right up to the car.

The pleasure of the acquaintance evidently wasn't mutual. Upon reaching the car, the bear stuck his paw through the window and gave Mr. Bowman a sound smack across the face. About that time the druggist saw several more bears coming from the woods, possibly attracted by the odor from a lunch box in the car, and he decided to move on.

Flower Ideas for the June Bride

Adorn—but do not conceal the wedding gown is the rule for the 1946 bride's bouquet is the advice of the floral stylists of the year. The principle is illustrated with the crescent-shaped example at right, blending pink camellias, dwarf elf roses and traditional lily of the valley. Well balanced and easy to carry, note the absence of streamers or ribbons, just small loop at center, enough to cover the bride's hands. At left, unusually colorful is this modern bridesmaid's bouquet of Gloriosa lilies, coral Gerba daisies and copper tulips.

Peach Crop in N. C. Of 3,200,000 Bushels Is Predicted For 1946

Raleigh: North Carolina orchards are expected to furnish 3,200,000 bushels of peaches this year, a 47 per cent increase over 1945, according to the Federal State Crop Reporting Service. Apple prospects also are good.

The Sandhill section, the only part of the state that had any success last year, does not have as bright prospects as the remainder of the state.

Georgia's peach crop is expected to decline 21 per cent to some 6,392,000 bushels, while South Carolina growers are looking to a record crop of 5,930,000 bushels.

N. C. Ranks First In 5 Crops, High In Others

RALEIGH—How does North Carolina rank with the other states in the production of various crops?

Frank Parker, who as chief statistician with the State Department of Agriculture keeps an eye on such matters, gives Tarheel credit for five "firsts." Every good North Carolinian knows that we grow more tobacco than any other state, but the other four crops in which we lead the field may offer a surprise to many. They are: lespedeza, for seed; late spring snapbeans; late summer snapbeans; and early summer green peppers.

North Carolina ranks in second place in the production of early commercial Irish potatoes, other "seconds", spring beets, late summer and late fall cabbage.

This state is third from the top in the production of cucumbers for pickling, and in the growing of late spring cabbage, soybeans to be cut for hay, and sweet potatoes.

Fourth place: summer lima beans, peanuts, barley tobacco.

North Carolina is in eighth place with regard to cotton, sixth place in lespedeza hay, tenth with early summer tomatoes, fourteenth in corn, seventh in the manufacture of molasses, 20th with wheat, tenth in peaches, pears, and grapes, sixth with pecans, 27th in production of commercial apples, eighth with watermelons, and sixth with cantaloupes.

President Aids Undergrad As Mattress Mover

PRINCETON, N. J.—Undergraduate Thomas J. King of Yonkers, N. Y., moving a mattress from one dormitory to another, got help from an unexpected quarter.

Laboring under the weight of the mattress, he heard a voice offering assistance, and he accepted without being able to see the donor.

At the third floor, Mr. King told his helper, "Dump it anywhere, Bud."

Turning to offer thanks, he found Dr. Harold W. Dodds, President of Princeton University, napping his brow.

Germans To Clean Up After London V-Parade

LONDON—German prisoners of war will be called in to help clear the debris and repair the thousands of pounds worth of damage done in London's Royal Parks and the approaches to Buckingham Palace during the mammoth victory celebrations which took place here on Saturday.

The Ministry of Works has not sufficient labor to cope with the problem of clearing up the mess. German prisoners, who helped build the billets in London's parks for the Allied troops in the Victory Parade, will repair the damage done at the height of celebration.
