James L. Cobb Is Named To State Art Committee

A new drive has begun this month to expand the membership of the North Carolina State Art Society, with James L. Cobb, local society member and druggist, named a member of the statewide committee to assist in this work.

At least 1,000 new members enrolled in the Society as its present goal, with the ultimate objective being the erection of a state museum to hold Carolina art treasures. The group has been active in highway beautification encouragement of school children in the study and appreciation of art, and the creation of well-planned buildings and monuments throughout the state.

Membership fees range from $1.00 for a year, $10.00 for patron membership, to $100.00 for life membership. Any person desiring membership applications is invited by Mr. Cobb to see him.

The State art exhibition, which will be held in December, offers to Tar Heel artists prizes totaling $1,000. Paintings in any medium, sculpture, prints and drawings may be entered, and will be judged by three nationally known persons in the art world. This exhibition is organized by the state society, and is expected to attract considerable interest.

Governor Cherry in a recent statement remarked that "It seems fitting during this year, the 20th
