Banana a Plant Oddity

The first paradox about the banana is that it is a tree, by virtue of its size and height, without a true trunk. The tallest banana plants measure 40 feet from the tips of the leaves to the ground. In Jamaica they attain about 25 feet, the first 15 feet of which is approximately the remarkable "pseudostem" or false trunk; the remainder, the blades of the huge leaves which tower above it.

'The Law in Jesus' Day

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Exodus 20:3-17; Deut. 5:33, 6:3-9; Matt. 5:17-20, 22, 37-50; Mark 10:17-22; Luke 2:41-52.

By Alfred J. Buescher

On the Mount of Olives Jesus taught His disciples, "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

A lawyer asked Jesus which was the greatest commandment in the law, and Jesus answered, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, mind and soul."

A young man ran to Jesus and knelt before Him, calling Him "Good Master." Jesus asked, "Why callest thou Me good? There is none good but one, that is God."

Every year Jesus' parents went to Jerusalem to the feast of the Passover, and when Jesus was twelve years old He went with them.

The Law in Jesus' Day

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 7 is Exodus 20:3-17; Deut. 5:33, 6:3-9; Matt. 5:17-20; 22:37-39; Mark 10:17-22; Luke 2:41-52, the Memory Verse being Deut. 5:33, "Ye shall walk in all the way which Jehovah your God hath commanded you.")

IN TODAY'S lesson we begin a series on Jesus' interpretation of the Old Testament laws. Rather recently we had the story of Jehovah giving the laws of the Old Testament to Moses. These laws or ten commandments are couched in denials, "Thou shalt not." Jesus believed firmly in keeping these Jewish laws, but He interpreted their spiritual meaning in His teachings.

"Ye shall walk in all the way which the Lord thy God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land ye shall possess." The ten commandments are really the moral structure of our life today. To love the Lord our God, to love our neighbors, which follows naturally after love of God, are still the greatest commandments. If God is the father of us all (every-one on earth) we are all brothers and sisters, and should make no distinctions but love them all and treat them as such. Can you imagine God the Father making any distinctions?

shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven." The "least commandments" are those which seem trivial, but really are not. The control of thoughts and desires which we know are not good. Little dishonesties, "white lies," etc. If we practise these "least of commandments," in time we may come to break the great ones. If a preacher, teacher or parent breaks these lesser commandments and teaches them to others, he can never be called great in the kingdom of heaven because he is not great, but small in God's eyes, no matter what men think of him.

A lawyer asked Jesus which was the greatest of all the commandments of the law. Jesus answered readily, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart," and the second is like unto it, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

The Jews had many laws covering all the circumstances of their lives, down to their smallest actions. But to Jesus these two were the great ones, those that mattered most. If we love God, we must love our neighbors. If we are obedient to God's will, we will do what is right, and how much happier will we be.

The story of the young man who came to Christ, and, casting himself at His feet, begged to be told what to do to inherit eternal life, is next in our lesson. He was a "ruler" we are told, probably a ruler of the synagogue. He was wealthy, fine appearing, and had always led an exemplary life. He was a son and citizen to be proud of, and yet he was not satisfied. He felt he hadn't done enough, so he came to Jesus, and throwing himself on his knees he addressed Him with reverence, "Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

"Thou knowest the commandments," Jesus told him, and received the reply that he had kept them all his life. "Jesus beholding him, loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest; go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come take up thy cross, and follow Me."

Tent Revival Meets Are Well Attended

Interest is growing in the services in the tent revival meeting at Hazelwood which are being conducted by Evangelist L. P. Knecht, who is speaking on prophecy and other perplexing subjects. Last Sunday he spoke on Predestination, showing that God laid the plan of salvation.

Tuesday night he spoke on Russia in Bible prophecy. Sunday night he will have as his subject, "Melchisedec," the man without father or mother, having neither beginning of days nor end of life.

The Everyday Counselor

—By—
REV. HERBERT SPAUGH, D. D.

What do you do when you become angry and irritated over another's actions or speech? Tell him about it on the spot, or have you learned to wait a bit for calmer judgment? A business friend told me of his method the other day; it's a good one. Of course, his method applies chiefly to business transactions over which he becomes irritated. He writes a letter in which he gets his irritation "off his chest." Fortunately for him, he has a good secretary who is familiar with his methods. If he is too angry, she takes the letter and says nothing. She writes it and puts it in the "ice-box drawer." Then instead of presenting it to him for signature that day, she leaves it until the next day, when she presents it to him, and asks him if he wants to sign it and mail it. He usually rewrites it. Sometimes if he is not too irritated, she asks him, "Do you want to put this letter in the ice-box drawer until tomorrow?" He says the ice-box drawer is the necessary part of his business.

I know a number of people who use this method. They know their judgment is not sound in the heat of passion. They get the subject, which causes them irritation, "off their chest" in a good hot letter then they feel better, but they don't mail that letter until the next day. None of us have good judgment in the heat of passion. We ought to realize that. What we say at this time is going to be wrong in the light of sound judgment.

In these strange and strenuous days many of us are doing things which we will later regret. We are rapidly becoming a nation of quarrelers, demanding our own selfish rights in the heat of irritation and anger. We wouldn't want
