

Snap Shots Of The

HUMAN SIDE OF LIFE

—By—
FRANCES GILBERT FRAZIER

The music of the bands has scarcely died away in the distance and we have just torn the red letter figure off the calendar that denotes the festive Fourth of July when bang! it's Labor Day. No one has ever yet been able to explain why the last two months of summer go with such incredible speed; no other two months in the year wind themselves up half so quickly.

We suddenly note the appearance of gold tinged leaves amongst the green; the setting sun has a deeper rose color as it spreads itself across the western sky; there is the slightest tingle of fall in the brittle air and we fully realize that summer has gone the way of all years in the past.

And, believe it or not, we reach out with welcoming hands and hearts, for there is something about the autumn season up here that gets a wee bit closer to the heart than any of the other seasons. It is difficult to accurately put one's finger on the exact reason but every one feels it just the same.

After once viewing these mountains in the glory of their scarlet and gold habiliments, there is little wonder that we folk who live in their shadow wax poetical and enthusiastic over their grandeur and beauty. The spring has its attractions and so does summer; and winter with its coat of ermine is something worth traveling miles to see, but "the glory of the hills" when the first days of fall tinge the foliage is something that one never forgets.

Mother Nature, in her most generous mood, gets out her giant lipstick and touches up the topmost leaves of the maple; puts a strand of golden beads on every branching tree; and ties a bronze ribbon about the throat of each shrub and plant. The mountains don their brightest Paisley shawls, or tie their heads in gayest bandanas, and smile contentedly upon an admiring world. The magic carpet of autumn lies at their feet and they sit majestically in their splendor, each succeeding day adding to their dignified magnificence.

We have never quite understood why our summer visitors do not prolong their stay at least a month longer so they could enjoy an experience they will never meet in any other Southern locality, and certainly something that Floridians would carry in their minds for some time to come. The days are something to remember with their wealth of exhilarating air and gorgeous scenery, but the nights, too, are indelibly implanted in memory. One drinks deeply of the intoxicating atmosphere and reaches out fingers to touch the stars, so close do they seem, and at times of the month a full-blown moon rides the night sky and envelopes the earth in its brilliance.

Welcome, Labor Day, for you are the key that unlocks the great vault of autumn and allows its treasures to be distributed for our delectation and inspiration.

Jonathan Creek
News

Mr. and Mrs. Medford Leatherwood have as their guest for two weeks Miss Doreen Heppenstall, of Miami, Fla.

A ten-day revival meeting will begin at the Shady Grove Methodist church next Sunday, July 7. Rev. W. A. Kelly, an evangelist, from Valdosta, Ga., will preach. People of all denominations are invited to attend.

Mrs. Paul Dennis and son, Robert, have returned from a three-weeks visit with her brother in Johnson City, Tenn., and her step-mother, of Forbes.

The past two weeks have been ideal for "haying." Many tons have been cured and stacked on the Creek.

Beet Color

If you want beets to have a rich color when cooked, do not peel or break off the skin when preparing them. You can bake beets by preparing as you would for boiling. Rub surfaces with oil and bake until tender.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness and the beautiful flowers sent during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother.

H. L. Finger and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank all our friends, relatives, doctors and hospital personnel for their kindness, words of sympathy, and floral offerings during the illness and death of our wife and mother.
