Louisville Bishop Explains Elements Of Protestantism

Bishop William T. Watkins, Louisville, Ky., speaking at the Lake Junaluska assembly last week on "Protestantism", declared, "It is not a negative something, but is a way of life which has come as a result of the rise of a new truth."

The two elements of Protestantism as compared with the ecclesiastical belief of the established at the time of Martin Luther, he said, are the doctrine of Salvation by faith alone and the sole authority of the Scriptures. The first element, he said, "once shook the continent of Europe for it meant that no ecclesiastical organization stands between man and God as he enters into dealing with his heavenly Father, that man needed no intermediary between him and God."

The second major element of the sole authority of the Scriptures is not a daring statement today, Bishop Watkins explained, but in Luther's time it was, for it implied the right of every man to interpret God for himself as he searched the Scriptures.

Dr. Robert Beaven, young Baptist theologian, in his platform address Thursday noon, discussed the "Gospel of Salvation." He pointed out that man is a problem both to himself and to his fellows, and for the same reason—because of the basic concern for self which he brings into life.

If he is to be saved, he said, he needs to be related to some reality beyond himself wherein his self-concern can be overcome. The speaker argued that the Christian faith invited man to God, not as One who will do all things, for him, but as One in fellowship with whom man can get beyond both the anxiety and selfishness of his self-concern.

"Fresh Paint" at Post Office

Painters began putting a new coat of paint over the Waynesville Post Office this week. Woodwork and walls throughout the building are to be re-painted, as well as the iron pedestals that holds the lights in front of the office.

Mrs. George Allen, of Detroit, is visiting her brothers and their families, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Bramlett and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Bramlett. Mrs. Allen is the former Miss Maud Bramlett, of Waynesville.

Mrs. W. L. McCracken and Mrs. R. L. Holt spent a few days during the week in Sylvania, Ga., where they visited the former's daughters, Mrs. C. E. Hagan and Miss Martha McCracken. They were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hagan and their small son, Carl Edward Hagan, Jr.

For each person striving to leave foot prints on the sands of time—there are ten trying to cover them up.

Summer Guests At Maples Given Welcome Party

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Walters, of Orlando, Fla. were given a welcome upon their arrival at "The Maples" this week on the occasion of their sixth consecutive season here.

Sponsors of the event were Mr. and Mrs. Ed R. Carswell, of Tampa, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Haskins, of Winter Haven, Fla. who were assisted by Mrs. Manuel Jones of Orlando and Waynesville.

As the guests filed into the dining room the Soco Gap string orchestra struck up a familiar tune and for a brief period it was a question of who was the more surprised the guests of honor or the many guests attending the affair.

An artistic and clever centerpiece adorned the table. A large chocolate layer cake, bearing the inscription of "Welcome Mary and Oscar" was served at the end of the meal and Mrs. Walters was presented with a two-pound box of chocolates by Earl L. Haskins.

Brief, but well spoken speeches were made by both Mr. Haskins and Mr. Carswell. In addition to the music special dance numbers put on by T. C. Norris and the "Maples chef," Rich.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Yates had as their guests during the past week Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones and the former's mother, Mrs. J. Y. Jones, of Elon College.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wagenfeld have had as their guests their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wagenfeld, and their small son, of Newport News, Va., but Mrs. Wagenfeld has returned home, but Mrs. Wagenfeld is remaining over for a more extended visit.

FREAK ACCIDENT IN MURPHY

A large Bible and a picture of Franklin D. Roosevelt escaped the wrath of a streak of lightning. It tore a four-foot hole in the roof of a Murphy home last Friday, destroyed the table on which the Bible laid, and went through the wall behind Roosevelt's picture, but neither article was scared. And the owner, Mr. Neil Millsaps, is thankful they were protected.
