Dress-up Dress

For important daytime dates.

By VERA WINSTON

THE DRESS-UP dress that isn't too fancy, so that it fits smartly yet unobtrusively into any daytime social event, is a rare gem. Pastel or black crepe is used for a dress of this type that is made with a simple neckline, slit part way down, a good foil for jewelry. The pannier pockets at the hips are draped from a V section below the tie string belt. The narrow skirt has a small slit center front and the cap sleeves are double for extra measure.

area are offered in this sale. The history of the Belle-Meads development is rather interesting and unique. Starting over twenty years ago, it has passed through many stages, of disappointment and success. From a financial standpoint, it has probably meant more headaches to the promoters than profit, but out of this has grown Waynesville's best asset from a tourist standpoint, namely, The Waynesville Country Club. From a dairy farm, owned and operated by Frank Welch, to the present magnificent 18 hole golf course, one of the finest in the South, with the club house and many handsome homes surrounding it, it is a credit to the promoters of the property.

repairs and were unable to find a place to stay. "We chanced to meet Mr. Guy Messer, one of the members of your force, who very kindly took it upon himself to find us a room or cabin. He called the owner of some cabins who offered to drive to meet and guide us over the detour necessary because of the work being done on the highway. "This sort of treatment by an officer of the law is most unusual and should be highly commended by his superior officers as it leaves a good taste in the mouth of strangers when they are treated in such an excellent manner. "Please convey my heartfelt thanks to Officer Messer for his consideration and helpfulness in obtaining a good night's rest while in your city last week. "Sincerely yours, THEODORE S. BESCH."

$250. As a result they have been charged with assault with deadly weapons with intent to kill and with armed robbery.

Andy Parker, who appeared to be the most seriously wounded of the three, operates a taxi stand at the Weeping Willow and received his wound while seeking refuge behind a large safe. Witnesses declared that he did not participate in the shooting.

Parker and Andy Case were brought to the offices of Drs. Robt. and Charles Owen here immediately after the shooting, and were given medical attention before being rushed to the hospital. Case was put under arrest by Chief of Police W. N. Stroupe and Officer J. K. Pickens.

Jack Case and Oscar Case were apprehended by Chief Stroupe and Officer Robert Payne about 2:30 a.m. at the Whiteway taxi stand on Park street, where they were attempting to call a doctor for Jack Case. Deputy sheriffs Wade McDaniels and John Kerly answered Chief Stroupe's call to the county sheriff's office and assisted in the investigation.

According to an account of the gun battle, given to police by Ott Robinson, proprietor of the Weeping Willow, the three Case brothers came into his cafe at about 11:35 last night and demanded that beer be served to them. Miss Zelma Brown, a waitress, told them that it was after legal hours for selling beer and served them with coffee.

They then renewed their demand for beer. Robinson related, and started using foul language in the presence of Miss Brown and Mrs. Irene Hensley, another waitress. (Robinson explained here that the Cases had threatened trouble two nights ago when they had been refused beer after legal hours, and that he had refused to sell them beer on one occasion during the day yesterday.)

The three brothers then left the cafe. Robinson continued, and almost immediately Andy Case returned with a .22 calibre rifle which he jammed against Robinson as he stood in the doorway. Robinson knocked the gun up as it discharged and with the aid of bystanders, he wrested the gun from Case. At that point Andy Case is said to have engaged in a brief but full engagement with another bystander. When this was broken up Case left briefly and returned with his brothers, all of them armed with rifles, pistols and shotguns.

Robinson said they started firing as they got to the gasoline pumps in front of his establishment, and continued on into the building firing at everybody in sight and reducing the place to a shambles.

At this point Robinson said he got his pistol, a .38 Special, to return the fire but that it jammed when he attempted to use it and that he handed it to Hubert Young, an employee of the Dickerson Construction Co., who was present, and went to get a shotgun, with which he continued to give battle.

In the meanwhile the Cases started shooting at Young, and according to his account he cleared the gun Robinson had handed him and emptied it at them. He said that he "believed he got one of them."

At one time during the shooting the Cases were said to have gained complete control of the cafe and it was then that they were alleged to have rifled the contents of the two cash registers. After their arrest some money was found on their persons and some checks which Chief Stroupe was last night trying to identify as having come from the registers.

After the shooting died down witnesses said that the Case brothers

Among the noted scholars who have delivered addresses from the auditorium platform was the great Oriental scholar, Dr. Eddy Asirvatham from Madras, India, wearing the garments of his country and speaking with conviction on the contrast between the Christian religion and the Hindu and Mohammedan faiths of his native land.

Another favorite guest speaker this week was Dr. Harry Holmes, an Australian whose accent, as well as the content manner of his addresses has delighted Junaluskans.

The present Missionary Conference, July 30-Aug. 6, with its array of officials, repatriated missionaries and Christian nationals has made these grounds a world thoroughfare, and the eye-witness accounts given by prison camp internees and persons who have gone to war-torn lands as observers have stirred the great audiences.

Bishop Ralph Ward, who spent more than three years in a Japanese civilian prison camp, has brought a good report of the Christians. Richard Baker, brilliant young journalist who spent two war years in Chungking and was correspondent at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Japan, gave the first of two lectures on Japan Wednesday night.

Today at 11 a. m. Dr. Y. C. Yang, president of Soochow University, will deliver an address on "The UNO at Work," and at 8 o'clock tonight will speak on "Christian Education and a Free China." Dr. William B. Burke, from China, and missionaries from other fields will be presented Saturday morning.

Sunday at the 11 o'clock service Bishop Arthur J. Moore, of Atlanta, who recently spent several months in Korea, will talk on "Post War Korea" at the annual observance of Junaluska Day, Monday and Tuesday a witness of the fall of Poland, Gailther Warfield, will present the closing addresses to the Missionary Conference.

On the sidelines is a unique gathering, the Mountain Session of Statisticians who came here after a six-weeks study at the State College Institute of Statisticians at Raleigh. Their field is wide and interesting, and the key figure of the group is Dr. R. A. Fisher of Cambridge University.

"BLAMELESS"

The Congressional Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee, by a majority of 8 to 2, found that President Franklin D. Roosevelt was blameless for the great disaster at arms, and saluted the late President and his cabinet advisers as men who had done their duty with "conviction, ability and foresight."

Senators Homer Ferguson, of Michigan, and Owen Brewster, of Maine, both Republicans, filed a sharp, and at some points, bitter dissent.
