Reward Increases For Arrest Of Georgia Lynchers

MONROE, Ga.—Rewards for the arrest of the white men who lynched four Negroes in Walton County increased to $20,500 today as Solicitor General Marshall Pollock deplored a spreading impression that local authorities are not cooperating in the hunt.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People offered rewards totaling $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the lynching party members, almost matching the $10,500 posted by the State of Georgia.

The NAACP stated in New York that it had given to the Justice Department evidence "pointing to the guilt of certain of the mob leaders."

Pollock, who is attached to superior court here, commented on reported charges by Maj. W. E. Spence, chief of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, that "the best citizens of the county refuse to help us in the case."

Spence has since "corrected the misquotations," Pollock said, but the impression is still spreading.

Walton citizens are "shocked and grieved at the wanton act of a few," he said. He explained that the first act of local authorities when the slaying was discovered was to notify the GBI and the FBI, realizing that they themselves were "manifestly unable to cope with the situation because they lacked the necessary training and facilities."

"As the investigation continues," he said, "we ask only that we not be pre-judged and that we be given an opportunity to justify the faith that many have expressed in us, that the principles of law and humanity will be upheld."

Meanwhile, Gov. Ellis Arnall telegraphed his thanks to President Truman for the cooperation of the Federal government in the drive to solve the lynching. He sent similar telegrams to Attorney General Tom Clark and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Autumn Vacations In N. C. Urged In Ad Campaign

RALEIGH.—A brisk advertising campaign to sell North Carolina's autumn attraction to late vacationists will commence in late August, the state advertising division announced.

Around 30 metropolitan newspapers will carry display "North Carolina in the fall is the best of all," and that many good resorts will remain open through September and some through October, at which time the state's winter resorts open.

Magazine ads also will be run in September and October issues, featuring the "leaf season," the outdoor sports of the months, and the excellent salt water fishing.

Field and Stream magazine for September will carry a coastal fishing advertisement headed "The Old Guides Say: Fall fishing is the best in North Carolina," and pointing out the possibilities for cove, amberjack, dolphin and channel bass.

The division this spring launched a "come early" campaign which it termed successful. The new effort is part of a long-range program of lengthening the vacation season in North Carolina.

Army Experts Predict Sending Radar Equipped Rocket To Moon

WASHINGTON.—Army experts come up with the startling prediction that the first space ship to the moon probably will take off within 18 months.

Not only that, but they add that interplanetary travel by humans may be possible in 30 years.

Major P. C. Calhoun, head of the guided missile branch of the army air force, says he expects to take a trip to the moon himself. Round trip, of course.

The most engaging figures is that 18 months—when the experts say they expect to shoot the first rocket ship to the moon. It will be strictly one-way passage—this first experimental flight into the universe beyond the realm of the earth, and of course, it will be a guided missile, with no one aboard.

Major Calhoun says the army does not plan to send a rocket to the moon until it can be certain that it will land safely. He says the rocket will be equipped with automatic devices to send radar signals back to earth giving information about conditions there.

Calhoun says it's hard to convince the public what its on the verge of interplanetary exploration—for the same reason, he says, that men scoffed at Fulton's steamboat and Jules Verne's prediction of the submarine.

The army expert has this to say: "Man is approaching a new frontier of exploration and knowledge. He is about to explore the universe. He will see things and perhaps peoples beyond the powers of our imagination."

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Household Suggestions

By RUTH CURRENT
N. S. State College

Many women like to wash the cooking utensils first, thus clearing away the clutter of assorted pots, pans, spoons, and forks before starting the dishes. However, when the usual order of dish-washing is followed, the cooking things are washed last. When necessary, extra soap and hot water should be added to the dishpan for this last operation. When you wash dishes, pots, and pans, keep the water clean by frequent changes.

When pans are soaked, they are usually easy to wash, but when food is permitted to dry and harden on them, washing is a problem. Make it part of your routine to fill pots and pans with clear water immediately after using.

To wash pans properly, first discard the soaking water, at the same time removing the loosened bits of food. A rubber scraper is very useful here. Wash inside and out with hot soapy water. Use scouring powder or metal cleaner to remove burned and crusted foods. Rinse thoroughly. Dry. Be especially careful not to put tin or iron pans away damp. They will rust if they are damp.

Dark stains on aluminum pans, if not too well established, can be removed with vinegar water. Fill pan with equal parts of vinegar and water. Bring to a boil. Do not try to remove this kind of stain with soap and soda, as it may only be deepened. Never soak aluminum pans in suds.
