CLOSEUP OF ATOM CLOUD IN BIKINI LAGOON

A DARK CLOUD rises to obscure the target fleet and vapor waves form on the surface as the underwater atom bomb explosion sends a giant column of water and smoke 5,000 feet into the sky. The small dark spots at the left and in the center of this original photo are ships of the "guinea pig" fleet. (International)

Monday's Casserole Dinner

By BETSY NEWMAN

MAKE a casserole of the Sunday roast to serve on Monday's dinner table. You can finish the Sunday vegetables, too in the casserole, or add fresh ones if you have no leftovers. You can use leftover mashed potatoes for the puffs, too, or you can boil and mash raw potatoes to make them. A chocolate ice cream that will not deplete your sugar supply makes a pleasant finish to the meal, especially if the day is warm, and you need not serve bread with this meal, but if you do, limit the amount to one slice each.

Today's Menu

- Casserole of Meat and Vegetables
- Potato Puffs
- Cabbage, Carrot and Green Pepper Salad
- Magic Chocolate Ice Cream
- Hot or Iced Drink
- Casserole of Meat and Vegetables
- Leftover meat cut in 1-in. pieces
- 3 small onions, diced
- Gravy or stock
- Salt and pepper

salt and pepper, put all into casserole, add any leftover vegetables on hand, add more water if needed, top with corn flakes, and bake for 1/2 hr. at 350 deg. F. Serves 6.

Potato Puffs

- 2 c. hot mashed potatoes
- 1/2 c. milk
- 2 eggs
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 c. grated cheese
- 1/2 tsp. paprika

Cook potatoes, mash, add milk and beat until light and fluffy; add eggs one at a time, beating each in vigorously; add seasoning and grated cheese (the latter may be omitted or less used).

Drop from tip of tablespoon in rounding spoonfuls onto greased baking sheet or pan and bake in 375 deg. F. oven until delicately brown and hot through, about 15 to 20 mins. Serves 5 or 6.

Magic Chocolate Ice Cream

- 1 sq. unsweetened chocolate
- 1/2 c. sweetened condensed milk
- 1/2 c. water
- 1/4 tsp. vanilla
- 1/2 c. chilled light cream or evaporated milk

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler, add sweetened condensed milk and stir over rapidly boiling water 5 min. or until thick. Add water and mix well, then chill. Freeze rapidly until half frozen, then scrape from freezing tray in chilled bowl and beat until smooth but not melted. Replace in freezing unit. Before completely frozen, beat again until smooth. Finish freezing. Serves 6.

Secretary, N. C. Library Com. On Official Visit

Miss Marjorie Beal, secretary of the North Carolina Library Commission, spent Friday here in an official visit to the Haywood county Library.

Miss Beal was high in her praise of the progress being made by the Haywood institution and its extension of service. She also visited the library in the colored school on Pigeon Street.

Miss Beal was en route from Gatlinburg, where she had attended a TVA conference relative to library work. She had also spent two days in Murphy where she had visited the library there.

How To Deal With A Stubborn Child

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

FROM a mother in a small Canadian town, came this:
 "Dear Dr. Myers:—I read your column regularly and feel I get a lot out of it. I would like some advice from you, so will enclose a stamped addressed envelope.

"I have a girl 8 years old who is very determined, and a son 5. I don't like her going out at night to different things down town, as I feel she is too young. The neighbors' children go, it seems, when they wish and she feels she should do it, too. She feels she is being done out of something. I want her to feel that I am trying to do what I think best for her. How can I show her that?"

Misbehaves In Company
 "She is also very bad at not doing what I ask her, especially when we have company. The other night when we had company I had to get across to her before she would get ready for bed and then she got mad and went to bed crying. She is quite high-strung and when I go to whip her she gets just about blue in the face. I think, perhaps, I am inclined to nag at her, but it bothers me so much when she doesn't do what I ask her before I have to speak to her several times.

"I am so anxious for her to have respect for me and still feel close to me. My husband tells me I am soft with her."

The Psychologist's Reply
 As I wrote her, You are right in your convictions but weak in your courage. Neither now nor for some years to come, should you allow that child to go down town at night unattended by a responsible adult and not very often then. No matter what the neighbors do, you are responsible for your own child. Have no arguments about the matter at all. Just don't try to convince her with words. Twenty years hence she will realize you were right. When you make a request of her in irregular situations, let her choose. No occasion to repeat or to get angry if she does not accede. But with things she must do, as going to bed, don't request. Just tell her once when she shall go to bed for the next six months. Merely watch the clock. If she is in bed with lights off, one, two or five minutes late (as you have designated once) require her to sit in a chair where you can see her without any amusement for exactly 40 minutes. Should she not choose to go to bed then, let her sit there till she does. Next night do likewise, if necessary, and the next.

Later Than Young Brother
 Be sure her bedtime is noticeably later than her younger brother's and that she has other privileges to indicate she is your big girl. See that he does not mess up her things and that you do not praise him often in her presence. Compliment her more often (honestly) and show her lots of affection. Attract her playmates to your home.

Please whip her no more, unless she should leave the chair when sent there for punishment before the announced time is up. Resolve never to repeat a command. Make your word good and try to boss as little as possible. Then you will nag less, she and you will vex each other less and the way will be clear for more good times together, laying the grounds for her to love you more and more.

Also, train that girl to help you about the house, assigning her a few regular, daily jobs.

Haywood Baptist Committee Holds Meeting Friday

The nominating committee of the Haywood Baptist association met with Moderator C. H. Green and the clerk, Mrs. Sam Knight at the Allen's Creek Baptist church Friday night.

Members of the nominating committee include: the Reverends R. P. McCracken, W. H. Whitlock, Doyle Miller, O. F. Burnett and Mrs. Claude Francis.

HAVE WATERMELON FEAST

Howard Clapp, superintendent of the State Test Farm here, gave employees and their families a watermelon feast yesterday afternoon. This is an annual affair at the Farm, and about 35 were present.

NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

As you know, not only the cost of living went up considerably in the last few weeks. The same applies to everything that is connected with the running of our buses, their upkeep and maintenance, insurance premiums etc., etc.

We tried very hard to offset the increase by giving a better service the public thus increasing the number of our passengers. Now, we came a point where we have either to curtail our trips or to slightly increase the fares.

We thought it better to choose the latter way. We will not do it before August 15. The new fares will be posted in papers on time.

Today, we want to appeal to our patrons to understand this necessity and to cooperate in using our buses as before.

You know you save much more for your family by using our service.

Cordially yours,
