

Robertson

In 1902 Mr. Robertson was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of science by North Carolina State college at Raleigh, for his achievements in science, in industry, and in promoting social welfare.

At various times since coming to Western North Carolina he has served as chairman of the board of trustees of Western Carolina Teachers college, president of the North Carolina Forestry association, president of the Canton Civitan club, chairman of the North Carolina Wood Utilization committee of the Department of Commerce, chairman of the city-county debt committee of Asheville, chairman of the Southern Conference of Human Relations in Industry, director of the Wachovia Bank and Trust company of Winston-Salem, member of the advisory board of the Charlotte branch of the Reconstruction Finance committee, trustee of Asheville School, president of the Asheville Pen and Plate club, member of the North Carolina State Planning Board, trustee of the University of North Carolina, and a member of the North Carolina Highway Com. Debt commission.

Mr. Robertson served as an industry representative on the War Labor board from August, 1942, until May, 1944.

He is a 32nd degree Mason and a member of Baltimore Forest Country club.

He was married to Hope Thomson at Cincinnati on June 7, 1907. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson have three children, Reuben B. Robertson, Jr., Logan Thomson Robertson and Hope Robertson Norman. They make their home at Elft Rock.

it on the calendar, allowing time for discussion. The Budget Bureau, representing the administration, was not in favor of turning so much money loose at one time so fought against it, but when the House voted, it passed 379 to nothing. As I had written it all pay morning, the 61st annual Haywood ments were to be in cash.

"When the bill went to the Senate they finally passed it, but amended it to where payments would be in five-year bonds. The bill returned to the House, and since there was some doubt about it being signed by the president if we pushed for cash payments, it was passed again as the Senate had voted."

Congressman Rogers has the pen with which President Truman signed the measure into law. He was present during the signing, at 12:30, August 9, in the White House.

He remarked that the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and other veterans groups all supported the measure. Congressman Rogers, although not a former soldier himself, had two sons in the recent war, one a Navy commander now practicing law, and the other a former army major who is returning to college. Neither, he points out, eligible under the Furlough law.

Some 15,000,000 veterans are due to benefit from the law, which is expected to cost the government approximately 2 1/2 billion dollars.

and spectators. Since there runs a certain amount of expense for electricity and umpires and other minor items, the games should furnish enough suspense to draw the paying customers. There were several upsets and a majority of the games were very good in so far as ball playing goes, but on the whole most of them could be predicted according to the standings of the respective teams. Had there been much of a scrap for first place as there was second and third there would not have been the tapering off of interest near the close of the season. But this in no way means that the league wasn't a success. Anything as wholesome as softball that gives so many people a chance to play and keep in condition is a distinct benefit to the community.

later brought to the hospital. Sam Arrington told The Mountaineer Monday he was taking his aunt and uncle (Mr. and Mrs. Smathers) to see their daughter at Spruce Pine for the week-end. Larry Arrington was accompanying them as far as Asheville. The Arrington car had many items of farm produce which were being carried to Spruce Pine.

Both cars were carried to a Canton garage. Mr. Arrington said he did not believe his car could be repaired, and the Powell car appeared to be damaged almost as badly, he said.

Mrs. Oliver White, of Richmond, Va., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Way, will leave the latter part of this week for El Paso, Tex. where she will go to visit her son-in-law and daughter, L. E. (Jag) and Mrs. J. H. Way, III.
