

Give Them the Green Light

To SAFETY In Our Streets

School Opens Aug. 28th

Many a small body's been broken—a mother's heart torn with grief because a little child darted into the path of an on-rushing car. With schools opening on August 28th, each motorist will be burdened with the responsibility of preserving the life and well-being of our school children. Yes, these children know the rules of safety—but often, in the excitement of a game of tag—in response to a playmate's call, they'll dash unthinkingly, into the path of your car. Each time you slide behind the wheel, the life or death of a child rests upon the alertness of your mind—the instant performance of your car. The responsibility is great but you can shoulder it. Drive carefully . . . observe common sense safety rules.

Make Sure Your Car Is In The Best Condition

Before school opens, let our expert check your car. Drive in today. We'll test your brakes, put them in "stop on a dime" order; look over the tread on your tires; check your engine. When we finish with your car, you know it's in perfect running condition—you know you can drive safely—with confidence!
