

On Site Sale Of Surplus Property Attracts Veterans

The largest item of the Fort Jackson on-site sale which is receiving considerable attention from World War II certified veterans who will buy for business use, is bedding. Under this heading come thousands of blankets of various types and sizes, also comforters, used and mattress covers used and unused—the value in acquisition cost to the government of $3,215,213.

Men's clothing, used and unused, is the next largest item. Instead in this $167,757 value are wool serge coats, mackinaws, light weight wool knit shirts, wool socks, boot socks, wool sweaters, herringbone twill cotton trousers, cotton field trousers, herringbone twill and field caps, white handkerchiefs and herringbone twill jackets. To insure such demand items being kept in this country, all of the clothing articles enumerated are being withheld from the export market. The WAA explains its action in this way: "Most surplus property is available to the export market, but merchandise in short supply is withheld from export."

Two other commodities total over $300,000 for this Fort Jackson sale. These are $144,254 worth of shoes, unused and used, which classification covers something for the ladies as well as the men. For the men are boots and leggings and combat boots, and for the women, WAC shoes and overshoes, which WAA officials expect will go rapidly. The second commodity in this $300,000 valuation comprises miscellaneous items—$158,650 worth.

But this time miscellaneous consists of a wide variety of items, many eagerly sought, including B & C white aprons, compasses with lensatic luminous dials, flashlights, dust respirators, platform scales, teaspoons, utility cooking outfits, 4-bladed pocket knives, mosquito bars, water heaters, stencil cutting machines, and canvas webbing in 80-yard rolls, unused. There are other things, too, but veterans should attend the sale to find out what they are from the catalog to be distributed there.

And at the Fort Jackson WAA on-site sale there will be other items which will strike a feminine note. These come under the heading of WAC clothing, unused, and include nearly $99,000 worth of WAC jackets, slacks, trousers, shirts, caps and stockings, all withheld from the export market. There will also be plastic foot tubs, under the heading of $42,000 worth of containers, which will make wonderful baby bath tubs or dishpans for some ingenious housewives.

Other commodities to be sold at Fort Jackson include $52,000 worth of various kinds of tents and carriers, $5,600 worth of tents and poles, and a nearly equal amount of domestic electric appliances, including 10 rare refrigerators and 58 Singer sewing machines, both withheld from the export market. And another commodity which small boys will envy the veterans' privilege of buying will be 104 used bicycles for which the government paid

Much Loss Of Pork On Farms Can Be Prevented By Care

Proper handling and curing of pork on the farm can prevent losses that run to about $2,000,000 a year in North Carolina, says Dr. Dan Brady of State college, in charge of meats research for the agricultural experiment station.

A special publication, entitled "The Farm Pork Supply," Circular No. 262, gives information on equipment for butchering, cutting up the meat, rendering lard, curing of meat, smoking, and proper storage of cured meats.

It carries a series of ten photographs to show just how the carcass is cut into hams, fatbacks, loins, bacon, picnic shoulders, and the like.

Both the dry curing and the brine curing methods are discussed. Simple instructions are given as to how each type of curing may be carried out.

The publication also carries sausage recipes and instructions for the making of head cheese.

Free copies of the circular may be obtained by writing the agricultural Editor, State college. "By proper handling of meats it is easily possible to have home cured, canned, and frozen meats available throughout the whole year and at a very substantial saving over what it may be purchased in the market," Brady says.

Those interested in canning meat should write for Circular No. 284. Instructions on freezing foods for home use are given in Circular No. 280.

Public Is Getting Wary Of Investigation Reports

An era of investigation is underway in Washington where the public will be given some of the highlights in connection with various war enterprises. The senate committee investigating the national defense program, and a house committee looking into the disposal of surplus war property, are beginning to produce sensational stories. The picture that the public gets will be distorted because it will show only isolated instances in a tremendous number of transactions. If the committees are not careful in their revelations their work will be discounted by the public which is beginning to be wary of congressional "disclosures."

FROM MISSOURI

While Firestone, Edison, Ford and Burroughs, the naturalist, were touring, a light and a tire on the car went wrong. Mr. Ford went into a store and said to the proprietor, "What kind of lights do you have?"

"Edison," was the reply.
"And tires?"
"Firestone."

"You will be interested to know that Mr. Edison and Mr. Firestone are in my car, and that I am Henry Ford."

As the man was putting on the tire Mr. Burroughs, who was well adorned with white whiskers, leaned out of the car, and the man looking at him, said: "If you tell me you're Santa Claus, I'll crown you with this wrench!"

The Fort Jackson sale runs concurrently for federal agencies and veterans August 26-27, then for veterans through August 30. RFC buys for small business on September 3, state and local governments purchase September 4, and eligible nonprofit institutions on the 5th. From the sixth on, the sale will be open to the public.
