Canton Meets Greeneville Tonight

Black Bears Kick-Off At 8 O'clock For 1st Game

Canton Winds Up Practice For Opening Whistle Of Season Tonight

At 8 o'clock tonight in Black Bear Memorial stadium the starting whistle of the football season in Haywood county will blow as the Canton High eleven meets the invading Greeneville, Tenn. eleven.

Since the middle of August the Black Bears have been working out to prepare for their 1942 schedule, a tough round of 13 games against many of the top prep school teams in Western North Carolina and East Tennessee. Coach C. C. Poundexter, with only a small supply of last year's regulars, has several potential service men on his present squad as well as the usual supply of regular talent.

The Greeneville eleven, always one of the strongest in East Tennessee, should give the fans a good idea about how well the Black Bears will perform this season. Quite a few people from Waynesville plan to see the game.

Buddy Ivester, quarterback, and Ted Stiles, fullback, are last season regulars for the Bears in the ball-carrying positions. Mack Stiles at end, J. C. Devlin and Rufus Morgan guards, and Geter O'Dear in the center of the line are better men who will see action tonight.

Last year the Canton team won eight games, lost two and tied one. Their complete schedule for this year is printed elsewhere on this page.

Redden Fishes, Too

MONROE REDDEN, like President Truman, knows what to do with a fishing pole and line. The picture above is proof of his prowess, though he seems to prefer the mountain to the deep sea variety. The photo was snapped by a Newport, Tenn. "Plain Talk and Tribune" photographer when our next Congressman was in that area last month checking on the Waynesville to Newport watershed road, a project he shall push when he goes to Washington next year. Newport gave him quite a reception, and considered the Tar Heel future representative a "real fellow."

ROD and GUN

By TOM WALKER

TROUBLE AFTER DARK . . . Take it from E. P. Keen of Kenly, Division "E" supervisor of law enforcement of the Division of Game and Inland Fisheries, trying to break up illegal deer hunting is a pretty thankless task.

Hunters who jump the gun on season openings already have begun their usual late-summer flurry of shooting—not only deer but other game as well. The problem of night hunting of deer, however, is by far the toughest for the State's fish and game protectors.

ROUNDUP TIME . . . The enforcement men heard a shot some distance from the highway, and waited at a car they found near the spot. It was 11 p. m. In a short time three "sportsmen" came across a field to the car dragging along a 150-pound buck deer.

The protectors took over the deer and two guns and two lights which the hunters were carrying. Charges brought against the three were: attempting to take deer at night; possession of deer during the closed season; and hunting without license.

In court the three men were convicted of possession of a deer during the closed season and hunting without a license. They drew 30-day sentences, suspended on payment of $19.75 costs each. The court ordered that the guns and lights be returned to the defendants.

ADDING IT UP . . . Out-of-season hunting is by no means confined to deer, of course. During

Mountaineers Continue Grid Scrimmages, Plan Practice Game Today

Green and White Teams Practice Passing and Punting Plays Wednesday

With only a week left before the kick-off of their opening game, Coach Weatherby's Mountaineers are going through their paces on the high school gridiron in a form that shows up well at this point in the season.

Passing and punting were emphasized in Wednesday afternoon's scrimmage. The two best teams were lined up against each other, one in green jerseys, the other in white, and took turns on the offense.

Several of the backs were snorting passes when they were supposed to go, and the receivers were making come from without too many fumbles, although since the opposing team knew what to expect on most of the plays, there were several nice interceptions.

This afternoon the practice session will include a scrimmage "game" with the players on their own.

Murphy high is expected to bring a squad of 20 players for what is to take place when the lights go on next Friday night on the local field. The Bulldogs at this time are an unknown quantity, but possibly have been strengthened by the return of servicemen, and Coach Al Smith's teams are usually one of the scrappiest in Western North Carolina.

Beet Picker

Harvesting beets by conventional hand methods requires about 21 man-hours per acre, but a combine requires only about four man-hours per acre.

Poor Agricultural Country

From the point of view of topography, as well as of climate and soil, Japan may be classified among the poorer agricultural countries.

SPORTS

By ED SPEARS

FOOTBALL is about to burst on us, with everyone expecting a much improved variety of the puskin pastime than has been possible in recent years. Although coaches at this time of the season don't like the impression to be broadcast that they have a good team, whether they do or not, with practice teaching its final stages those whose job it is to look them over and furnish newspaper copy about the various teams are turning out optimistic reports from all camps.

IN HAYWOOD county the football fight always is a matter of Waynesville and Canton. The Black Bears were the better team last year, and Charlie Poundexter has a habit of turning up in early September with eleven men who are hard to beat. However, he has been working with his squad, and what short in numbers and experience, so it will be hard to tell too much of what they will be like until after tonight's game. A week from tonight the Mountaineers meet their first real test, but those who have watched the squad in recent practices think they look pretty good. They are in good condition, full of spirit, and well drilled in the fundamentals of the game. And Coach Weatherby is best with a fairly good supply of reserves. Few teams will go undefeated this autumn, but the Mountaineers very likely will have a much better season than last year.

eastern, with Auburn, Georgia Tech, Tennessee and Tulane less fortunate in grid talent. The Tuscaloosa Tide, undefeated in last year's play and victor over Southern California in the Rose Bowl, has its complete first two teams—minus one man—returning for duty, plus new additions, Bob Neyland and several of his 1942 stars have returned to Tennessee, but the Vols are not expected to hit their pre-war stride this season.

JOE LOUIS will defend his heavyweight boxing title in Yankee Stadium on Sept. 18th against Tami Mauriello, the white horse of the Bronx. The two have been practicing the past few weeks for the big event, and Joe has worked down to the same weight—207 pounds—that he carried into the ring against Billy Conn in June. Since Billy put himself out on a limb by predicting what he was going to do before their scrap and left a wake of disappointment when the affair was finally staged, Mauriello has so far used a better strategy—kept quiet. If he follows the same line until ring time whatever happens cannot hurt his reputation.

CANTON golfers are planning to hold their annual Labor Day tournament at the Country Club sometime soon. Fred Dault, Harry Winner and Ned McClure, officers in the Champion Y golf club, are taking entries for the meet.

Angler Fish

The angler fish can swallow fish bigger than itself because of its "elastic" stomach. This remarkable fish gets its name from a long movable thread projecting from its head which it uses as a lure to attract its prey. The angler fish is able to walk along the bottom of the sea on specially formed fins.
