

Atty.-Gen. Gives Interpretations Of State Rules

RALEIGH — Attorney General Harry McMillan held in a digest of opinion that an election on the question of the establishment of ABC stores in a county may be called by the county board of elections upon the written report of the board of county commissioners or upon a petition to said board of election...

In another opinion, McMillan ruled that neither a clerk of police nor a township constable can legally hold office also as a tax collector but under no statute a town constable may also be assigned the duties of tax collector for local taxes.

Other opinions: In North Carolina a corporation may conduct business under a name other than that listed by its charter, but any such a name must be registered with the clerk of the superior court of each county in which such business is conducted...

Under our constitutional debt limitation a county cannot, without a vote of the people, increase the amount by which the outstanding indebtedness of the county has been reduced during the next preceding fiscal year.

Our election law provides that the county board of commissioners shall each receive $5 per month for their services on the day of a primary election and the day of a general election and the day of a referendum election...

A board of county commissioners in its discretion may allow reasonable expense of travel for election officials who are required to receive necessary trips for election official duties...

Under North Carolina law, cities and towns may amend by a tax on all trades and professions, carried on within the city limits, unless otherwise provided by law, and this authority is broad enough to cover a municipal privilege or license tax on the operation of freezer lockers.

Rocket Radio Is Planned For Moon Flyers' Reports

WESTINGHOUSE scientists have drawn up plans for a one-hundred-pound "rocket radio" which will broadcast from the moon on flights planned by the army.

Dr. J. A. Hutchison, referring to the moonbound rockets the army expects to build within 18 months, said it is now possible to construct a radio powerful enough to be heard from the moon—240,000 miles from the earth.

Hutchison said the 100-watt transmitter would weigh less than their official data, such as carrying and transmitting a radio transmission books and an antenna system returns. There is no difficulty, however, for transmission of any other type of radio transmission.

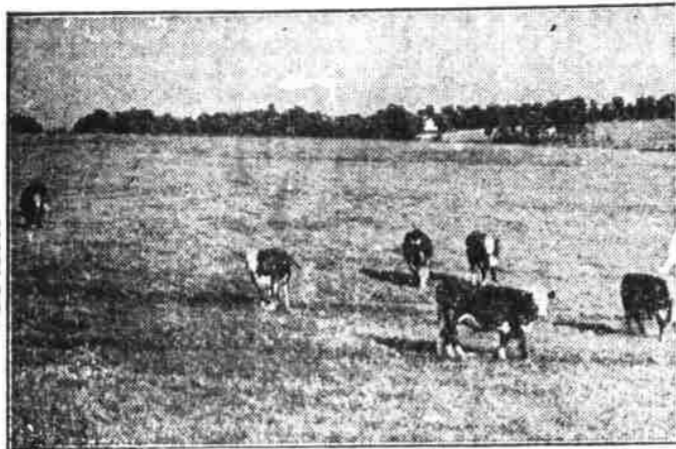

A light aerial, which is made of thin, properly spaced, parallel wires and positioned in a vacuum, is used for receiving radio waves.

The radio would broadcast for only one minute each hour to save the batteries. "Such hourly broadcasts not only would report the progress and landing of the rocket but also might be used to record temperature changes on the moon," Hutchison said. "Since resistance of wire changes according to temperature, this change would be made to vary the frequency modulation of the radio transmitter and change the tone of the signal which would be received on earth."

Station M-O-O-N might also help us discover many facts which are now largely a matter of conjecture. It generally is assumed moon because we can see no evidence of atmosphere in the form of clouds and haze. Instruments aboard the rocket could check on earth by radio.

What Is Your Pasture Worth?

Pastures have a dollar and cents value like any cash crop such as corn, or tobacco—and especially so at the present time with the high feed prices. Good pastures provide large amounts of feed for livestock. Assistance in establishing permanent pastures or reseeding worn-out pastures may be obtained through the Haywood County AAA Program.

You Can Get A Fancy Necktie, Men; But Don't Look For A Dress Shirt

Frederic Othman, UP writer, finds that reports from Washington production experts don't help much when it comes time to buy some of that clothing that all men need. Here's his story:

WASHINGTON—This looks like another cold winter, males. We're going to be nudists in neckties.

I don't care what John Small claims. He's the civilian production administrator. He's got rosy figures on the booming clothing business, but when his last pair of pants wears out he'll be in an awkward spot. I mean it is almost impossible for a fellow to sit behind a desk when he is wearing a barrel.

This melancholy thought is based on John's report about wool suits coming out of the clothing factories at the rate of 23,000,000 a year. He added that 70,000,000 shirts were boxed for sale in April, May and June. I read his figures and I rushed down to the capital's second biggest department store, where most of the second floor is devoted to clothing the male sex.

Fellows, something's cockeyed. The shirt cases are full of rayon handkerchiefs with spots on 'em. The man showed me two shirts. One was lavender, the other speckled blue. Price $5.95 each. The only shirts in the shop.

Neither was my size. I looked up the manager. He was glum. He'd read John's figures, too. But he wasn't getting the shirts. He recommended a custom shirt maker down the street.

He said I'd have to bring my own material. He said he understood several men had obtained beautiful white shirts by bringing in their own sheets.

The haberdashery department did have things for sale. It had cases of stuff to make a fellow smell sweet, rayon pajamas, cuff links, key chains and tie clips.

It also had ties. Magnificent ones. Some handpainted by Michelangelo. Others with butterflies woven in. Thousands of ties. Only I claim these brisk evenings a fellow clad solely in a synthetic satin necktie is too cool for comfort.

The cases in the clothing department mostly were blank. There were a few summer suits marked down. There were not woolen clothes to fit me. I wandered into the custom tailoring department.

Certainly sir, the tailor said. He could make me a suit. He could make me a beauty for $125. Quickly, too. He could guarantee delivery by Thanksgiving. He began pulling down bolts of cloth.

Some was brown with red stripes and some was brown with orange speckles. I told him I was looking for something for myself, not for my horse. His laugh was hollow; he'd heard that one before.

He said it was peculiar, how the good quality cloth seemed to come in patterns suitable for cocktail lounge draperies. He had a bolt of plain blue, but he wouldn't recommend it. Cheap stuff. Only $110. He said it wouldn't hold up. So, of course, I did not buy it.

It may be that all the clothes are in those mysterious tubes federal officials call the pipelines. Maybe they'll be coming out later. I fear I'd look funny wearing only a cravat. You, too, John.

- 1 The amount of money Paid Out to provide telephone service is increasing faster than the amount Taken In.
2 Telephone earnings are the lowest in our history.
3 Reasonable telephone earnings are essential to good telephone service.

Your Telephone Company is doing the largest volume of business in its history, yet telephone earnings continue to decline.

The reason is perfectly clear. Your telephone rate has remained the same for many years while the costs of furnishing you telephone service have increased. Wages, telephone materials, building costs, services, all have been going up so fast that—the amount of money Paid Out to provide service is increasing faster than the amount Taken In. Actually telephone earnings today are the lowest in our history!

As every business man knows, good service depends on reasonable earnings. That is basic. To render good telephone service and to continually improve and expand it, reasonable telephone earnings are essential.

Our public duty demands that we report these facts to you.
