

Former Grange Head To Return To N. C. Tuesday

DURHAM—Harry Caldwell's return to North Carolina brings back to the state a man with the unique distinction of having won recognition as a crusader without also being tagged a radical.

Caldwell, ex-four times master of the State Grange, resigned this week as secretary-treasurer of the American Plant Food Council in Washington, D. C., to take over the executive secretary post of the North Carolina Good Health Association.

"Harry Caldwell is one man who can champion a cause he believes in without climbing on a soap-box and playing for the grand stands," Governor Gregg Cherry said when informed of Caldwell's new position. "The Good Health Association is very fortunate in securing his leadership."

Caldwell assumes his new duties with a long-standing concern for the improvement of health conditions in North Carolina.

As head of the Grange from 1937 until 1945, he campaigned tirelessly for adoption of an over-all state health plan.

While championing the cause of the Grange and stressing the need for improved health standards in North Carolina, Caldwell remained an active foe of Socialized medicine.

"We believe the health needs of our people can be met without resort to Socialized medicine within the United States," he said, speaking as master of the Grange.

As a result of his outstanding record with the state Grange, Caldwell was named chairman of the agricultural committee of the National Grange in 1938 and again in 1942. He also served as chairman of various other committees with the national organization.

In 1941 he was named "Man of the Year" by the Progressive Farmer, and on July 29, of this year, received a special certificate of recognition for his services as manager from 1943 to 1944 of the North Carolina Milk Producers' Federation Cooperative.

Tall business-like and sincere, Caldwell is a native of Greensboro. He is a member of the board of deacons of the First Baptist church there and was teacher of the Covington Bible class for 11 years.

He is now winding up his duties with the Council in Washington and is slated to assume his Good Health post on the 14th of this month.

Truth Didn't Pay for Honest John in Quiz

OMAHA, NEB. — Capt. Harry Green of the Omaha police was quizzing a 15-year-old boy recently and not having much success.

"Aren't you going to tell me the truth?" Green asked. "Nope," replied the boy. "That's what John did, and he went to the reformatory."

'Picked On,' He Kills Two Bosses

Three Dead as Result of Gun Battle in Store.

INGLEWOOD, CALIF. — A mild-mannered clerk who believed he was discharged from the J. C. Penney Co. store here for dishonestly shot to death the manager and assistant manager because they "picked on me," a note he had written disclosed.

The clerk, Paul Dohanyos, 35, was shot in the head by a traffic policeman and died a few hours after the running gun battle through the store while terrified employees and customers crouched under counters.

Also dead were Manager Harry Hammerland, and Maurice Knudsen, assistant manager.

The battle began, police said, when Dohanyos, discharged the month before as head of the store's men's department, cornered the two store officials to demand an explanation.

The three argued heatedly, clerks said, and then Dohanyos drew his .45 caliber pistol. He fired one shot into Hammerland's heart, then turned to Knudsen and said, "Are you still alive?" he shot him as Knudsen ran from the office down the steps.

Dohanyos stood at the top of the stairs menacing employees, witnesses said, while customers called police. Three officers exchanged about 20 shots with Dohanyos, who fell, wounded three times.

circulation figures are astounding having increased in two years from 2029 to 11,486 (more than the entire county circulation of 1944).

I am proud of the interest of for program material and asking the Librarian to sit in on meetings to show what is available and using the Librarian's office where "committees and books" may get together. The Waynesville Book Club had its year's program around the book collection showing books available on the home, science, poetry, biography, drama, etc. In addition they started the Book Meetings idea and gave books last year.

The Waynesville Woman's Club gave a Silver Tea in honor of our two years of county service. Nurses' group bought a Hospital Book truck so that service might be given to patients in the County hospital. The U.D.C. added books and the D.A.R. aided in buying furniture for the Children's room and making it a very attractive place.

I'm proud of the Volunteer Help of our many interested friends who are giving an hour or so a week in order that our County Library Service may grow.

NEEDS—Oh yes, we dream of a Bookmobile, more books, building space to provide room for books, a room for story hour and club committee meetings. Dreams? Yes, but dreams can come true. Look at your Library's record of the past two years.

Library Notes

MARGARET JOHNSTON County Librarian Gleanings From the Librarian's Yearly Report

I am proud of the growing interest of the people and the use they are making of the Library in Haywood County. From all parts of the county they are coming in to register for their books at home and they feel they have a part in the county service.

The hours have been increased and the Library is now open all day. It gives the borrowers more opportunity for the use of the Library—time for browsing, reference, and reading. Our circulation has increased from 11,111 in 1944 to 37,150 in 1946. It has more than tripled in the two years of county service. I am proud that the service was started during wartime and that now an organization has been set up whereby the Library can begin to give better service and reach the people it should reach.

The Library is becoming more of a force for Education. It is gratifying to see our people find the answers to their particular problems. It may be a GI wanting help in his work or a young couple planning a home or a student wanting information for his school work. Our book collection is not adequate to meet all of our demands and every week books are borrowed from the Library Commission so that we may aid our readers in their particular study.

Talks have been made to P-T-A meetings, civic clubs, church groups and the reading certificates were presented by the County Librarian to 60 rural women at the annual Achievement Day. Teachers of the county have been invited to use the facilities of the Library and many are using collections in their rooms. There has been closer cooperation between the High school and the Public Library and the librarian and teachers there has been some attempt to aid each other.

Through reading clubs in the summer an attempt has been made to share with our boys and girls some of the pleasures to be found in good books. It has helped to build a trustful feeling among our boys and girls and now they feel free to ask for those things in which they are interested. It may be a dog story, a mystery, or just "a good book." The juvenile
