W. N. C. Pageant Plans Supported By State Board

Plans for a Western North Carolina pageant, depicting a phase of this area's history similar to that of the Lost Colony pageant held every summer at Manteo, were endorsed by the state board of conservation and development during their two-day meeting at Bryson City this week.
Josh L. Horne, advertising chairman for the Western North Carolina Associated Communities, advanced the plans for a pageant in this section to the commission. Mr. Horne was asked to investigate methods of getting the proposal in effect.

Young Democrats Begin Convention In Asheville Today

Members of North Carolina Young Democratic clubs will have their first state convention since 1941 at the Langren Hotel in Asheville, today and Saturday. Approximately 1,000 delegates are expected to attend.
The keynote address is planned for tonight along with talks by prominent party leaders and state officials. Registration will get under way at 2 p. m. today.
A banquet Saturday evening, installation of officers, and a dance will conclude the meeting. Mrs. Henrietta Price Gillespie of Morganton, president, will preside. The convention committee is composed of Mrs. Gillespie, Ralph Monger, Jr., of Sanford, and H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen.
At the 1941 meeting A. Leonidas Hux of Halifax, was elected president, but resigned in November, 1943 to enter military service and was succeeded by Mrs. Gillespie, then the vice president.

30-Minute Broadcast Made From High School On Show Program Tuesday

A 30-minute radio broadcast over WYNN was made from the auditorium of the high school here Tuesday night in connection with the Livestock and Home Arts Show. The program began with the Waynesville band playing "Under the Double Eagle."

Claude T. Francis, president of the show, explained the keen competition in the market and outlined the events of Tuesday.
"There has been lots of hard work put on the show by many who did not have the time to spare," he said.
Ed Sims, president of the Chamber of Commerce, termed the show as "second to none in the South," and the only one of its kind that is known where everything is free, and all expenses are paid for by business and civic groups.
Mr. Sims traced the history of the three shows held to date and concluded his remarks with the statement, "We look forward to the day when the show can have a permanent home of its own."
Jonathan Woody, general superintendent, explained how the $3,000 needed for the show was raised, without assistance from carnivals or outside entertainment. The Waynesville banker pointed out that Haywood is the largest beef producing county in the state, and ranks high in milk production.
"Less than four per cent of the farms in Haywood have a mortgage on them," he explained. "Furthermore, in 44 years, the Waynesville bank has lost less than $1,000 on loans to farmers who owned their farms."
"As a cattle county Haywood now has the largest number of registered Herefords of any county in North Carolina, and will not be surpassed by any county ever," he concluded.
Wayne Corpenning, county agent, announced the winners of the show and Home Arts display, paying tribute to those who worked so

The law of supply and demand operates in a free economy but there is no such thing in the entire world believe it or not. Capital and labor are both entitled to a share of the money that comes from production and both will suffer if either gets too much.

Looking Forward With Confidence..

With a tight lipped intensity that is pathetic, the world looks into the future. What does it hold... peace or carnage anew? Can homes and communities thrive or will fear of atomic attack herd us like sheep into underground retreats far from the cities?
For our part, we refuse to scare. We may be foolishly optimistic; but we would rather plead guilty to that than to over-pessimism. No... we look forward with confidence to a better world. We even intend to operate a better store... giving greater service than ever to people of this community.
