

Clinics Held For Sunday School Workers In Canton

A Teachers' Clinic for the Adult and Young People's Departments of the Sunday School of the First Baptist Church, Canton, was held at the Pastorium last Friday evening. Rev. R. A. Kelly, pastor, assisted by J. P. Murry, general superintendent of the school, led the discussions. All teachers of these departments were there except one. Several of the assistant teachers were also present.

On Monday evening at the church an officers' clinic for all officers of the Adult and Young People's Departments was held, beginning at 5:15 o'clock. Following a class period of forty-five minutes, supper was served. A second class period of forty-five minutes was held after which the entire group assembled for the open forum. During this period a demonstration of the monthly class meeting was given.

Mrs. L. M. White, superintendent of the adult Department and Mrs. R. A. Kelly, superintendent of the young people's department were responsible for the clinic. Approximately fifty of the Sunday School workers in these two departments were present. This is the first conference of this kind ever attempted in the First Baptist Church at Canton and it was one of the most successful and worthwhile conferences ever held in the church. It is planned that such clinics be held annually hereafter.

Teachers were: presidents, L. L. Shaver, enlargement vice presidents, Mrs. R. A. Kelly, fellows; stewardship vice presidents, Mrs. B. A. Horton, class ministries vice presidents, Miss May Heltzelaw and secretaries, Edwin Haynes, general secretary of the school.

Central P.T.A. Hears Discussion On Library Books

Miss Margaret Johnston, county librarian, was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Central Elementary Parent-Teacher Association on Tuesday night.

Miss Johnston stressed the value of books, and gave a brief outline of book publishing in America, showing some samples of early editions.

During the business session, the association decided to invest in a movie projector for the school, using part of the $413 made on the fall-ween carnival.

The Glee club of the school gave a series of songs during the entertainment session, and Mr. Rogers' sixth grade won the half holiday for having the largest percentage of parents present.

M. R. Williamson was in charge of the program, and W. Curtis Russ, president, presided.

Town Police Make Two Arrests For Drunken Driving

Of 11 arrests made during the past week by Town of Waynesville policemen, two were charged with drunken driving, and one with driving without a license. Seven persons were arrested for public drunkenness, and one was charged with simple assault.

One of the drunken drivers was tried in Mayor's Court, Tuesday. The defendant, William T. Fisher, was driven into another automobile on North Main street. No one was injured, and damages were minor. The defendant was fined $50 and costs, and had his driver's license revoked for one year.

The persons charged with public drunkenness were released with suspended sentence upon paying court costs. All other cases were continued, and possibly will be tried today.

Snakes Alive Are Worth Catching

Long Rattlers Bring $100 -- Pick 'em Up Bare Handed

By ANDY ANDERSON

AP Newsfeatures. SILVER SPRINGS, Fla. — Don't kill that snake — catch it! That is, if you could use a bit of pin money and aren't already scared to death. An eight-foot hale and hearty Florida rattler, for instance, will net you $100, but if he's only seven feet the price drops to a mere $15 because he is much more plentiful. And for a seven-foot northern or western rattler, the price is $1 a pound.

So says Ross Allen, Florida herpetologist who makes a business of catching snakes and selling not only the live ones but things he can make of them.

Allen's principal market for non-poisonous snakes is with carnivals and circuses in this country and Canada, the snake-man buying dens that cost from $15 to $150 a den. They buy a den on an average of every two weeks because of the high mortality of snakes in such work. A few showmen use poisonous snakes, Allen says, but not many.

The next biggest market takes in zoos and museums. Then, Allen says, there are some 5,000 individual collectors of reptiles who have private zoos in their homes and they are always in the market.

Aside from selling the live article, Allen disposes of virtually everything in a rattlesnake, for instance, except the whirr of its rattle; venom for serums, skin for leather articles, heads dried and varnished for curios or ornaments or preserved for museums, rattles for curios, meat processed and canned as a table delicacy, bones bleached and dried for manufacture of cosmetic ornaments, and gall bladder preserved and sold for various medical purposes.

Allen, a short almost rotund man, usually uses a hook and bag when he goes hunting but if he wants to show off, he just reaches down and picks up a snake back of the head. He has been bitten a few times, but it seems to bother him little more than a splinter bothers a carpenter.
