THE OLD HOME TOWN

Letters To Editor

Grandmother Ferguson, and as a grown man I knew his mother's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Reeves of Sandy Mush. Thus I have long known his heredity from these fine ancestors. His training in boyhood backed up this heredity. No nurance—he chopped wood and built fires. No water spigots—he drew water out of a well. No dairy—delivered milk—he milked the cows. No automobiles—he fed, curried and drove the horses. No food stores—he helped "raise" their own fresh foods in the family garden. And in the summer vacations, he with his brothers worked on the farm on Raccoon Creek. These "hard" things developed a sound body and a trained brain and will in efficiency—in doing the thing that ought to be done when it ought to be done.

This development of body, brain and character laid the foundation for four years of rigorous training in the Naval Academy at Annapolis. And at the end of that time it was not unexpected that he should graduate at the head of his class. His strong mechanical bent led to his being sent to Glasgow (the then world center of shipbuilding) and for three years he had rigorous training along these lines. Back in the U. S. he served the Navy in the various grades of naval constructor from 1895 till 1905. Then seeking a wider field he resigned to become assistant superintendent of the shipyard at Newport News—destined under his leadership to become the greatest in America.

In the meantime Homer Ferguson had taken unto himself a wife—I knew Miss Elise Skinner as a young woman. I knew her parents and was often in their house. Fifty years ago Mr. Skinner did me a kindness, small to him, a banker, but large to a struggling young fellow. And I knew her fine old grandfather, the great war governor Anderson of Indiana. "Miss Elise" a good wife, has been an active helpmate and partner in all

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Grand American Tradition
The Cuppers had a grand old family reunion last week—for the first time since the war.
Big and little Cuppers came, by car and train, from as far west as Nebraska and as far east as Vermont. They crowded Dee and Jane's house, set up quarters in the barns, or stopped with neighbors—and a jollier gathering you couldn't have imagined!
I was asked to their final Saturday night supper, when they sang old songs, drank beer and cider, reminisced. Dark Cuppers and blonde ones—Vermont accents and Alabama draws—doctors and farmers... all with their differences of taste and politics, yet as close and harmonious in spirit as a group could be.
From where I sit, it's a great American tradition—not just family reunions, but the ability to get along as one harmonious family, regardless of differences of taste—whether it's taste for politics or farming, beer or cider.
