HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform, Lesson on the above topic for Dec 29 ia Acts 9:15; 19:21; 23:11 28:28-31; Romans 1:13-16; 10:16-18; 15:22-24, the Memory Verse being Matthew 28:19, "Go ye therefore, and make disciples or all nations "1

THIS LAST lesson on Paul, his life and missionary journeys, reminds us that the reason that churches were scattered all over Asia in the first century, was be-cause one man, Paul, had a passion for spreading the gospel to the whole world, and devoted his life to this cause in spite of the hardships of travel and persecutions which included assaults on his person. Our first reference in Acts takes us back to the time Paul. then an ardent persecutor of Christians, burning with zeal to stamp them out in Damascus and take all he found in chains back to Jerusalem, was stopped by the vision of Jesus, and blinded. Led into Damascus he was lodged in a house in the street called Straight.

That night, a devout man of Demascus named Ananias was startled out of sleep by a vision, and the Lord told him to go to Paul, or Saul as he was then called. Saul had had a vision, said the Lord, he was blinded and was praying. Ananias said he had heard much evil of this man and that he had come to Damascus to persecute the Lord's saints there.

"But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto Me, to bear My name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel." You remember that Ananias did as he was told and Paul's sight was re-

At this time, Paul probably had no idea that he would be called upon to fill so great a place as be did in the world.

Paul Goes to Jerusalem

"After these things were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit, when lie had passed through Macedonia and Achara, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see Rome." His friends tried to dissuade him from going to Jerusalem, but he persisted, and there certain persons who were from Asia stirred up the people against him, and to save him from beatings, the Romans took him into custody. He was put in prison and doubtless felt disheartened, but the night following these disturbances the Lord "stood by him, and said, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as salem, so must thou bear witness also as Rome.

Why did Paul want so much to go to Rome? That city was there the center of the world. It was a powerful, splendid and populous city. It attracted the leaders in every business and profession, social leaders and those with politi-

The letter to the Romans was probably written two years before his arrest at Jerusalem. He had not seen Rome then and we do not know who founded the church in that city, but there was a church there. He writes:

"I would not have you ignorant. brethren, that oftentimes I purposed to come unto you chut was let hitherto), that I might have ome fruit among you also, even among other Gentiles.

"I am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians; both to the wise, and to the un-"So as much as in me is I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also." The epithet barbarian was applied to persons who were not Greeks, as the Greek civilization excelled all others. The "wise and unwise" is thought to denote the cultured and uncultured.

Later, in Romans 15, Paul refers again to the hindrances that kept him from visiting Rome, and writes that "But now, having no more place in these parts, and having a great desire these many years to come unto you. Whensoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you: for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought to my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled with your Whether Paul ever went to Spain we do not know, but his desire to visit Rome, as we see, was very strong. He wanted to preach the gospel of Christ in that "first city" of the then known world-indeed, it seems that it was a passion with him so to do.

Alas, most of the time he was in Rome it was as a prisoner, even though he was allowed to live in his own house, with a Roman soldier guarding him, and to talk freely with all who came to see this great apostle, and many came. His letters written to various churches when he was a prisoner in that city are among the greatest sermons ever preached in all the world.

There have been many missionaries since Paul's time, but none who stid so much for the church, none who more implicitly obeyed the injunction: "Go ye therefore, thon hast testified of Me in Jeru- and make disciples of all nations." Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.
