Texas City Blasts Kill Up To 800

TEXAS CITY, Tex.—(AP)—One of the nation's worst disasters began Wednesday, when a chain of blasts set off by the explosion of a nitrate-laden ship wrecked this Gulf port. Authoritative estimates placed the death toll anywhere from 500 to 800 yesterday, when three new explosions rocked the devastated waterfront of the stricken industrial town.

Dr. J. C. Quinn, Red Cross co-ordinator in Texas City, said he believed the final number of dead "will not exceed 500." However, 430 bodies have been counted and authorities believe 100 to 250 more still lay in the debris of the shattered dock area. Estimates placed the injured at 3,000 or more.

It was reported that 99 per cent of homes in the city of 15,000 had been damaged. Material damages were placed at $125,000,000 or more as ships, a vast chemical plant, oil refineries, oil tanks and other industrial plants were destroyed. Half the town's population has fled from the scene of the holocaust.

Thursday's blasts occurred aboard the freighter High Flyer, loaded with nitrates and sulphur, and at one of the oil tanks. Thousands of rescue workers are on the scene.

Critic

HENRY A. WALLACE

By his speeches in London when he assailed President Truman's plan to give financial assistance to Greece and Turkey to prevent those nations from being absorbed by the Communists, Mr. Wallace, the former vice-president, has aroused a storm of protests in Washington. Some congressional leaders term Wallace's talks "near-treason." The town defends his right to criticize U. S. policies, and plans to speak "for peace" on more platforms.

Two Seek Mayor's Seat In Hazelwood; Gaddy Is New Alderman Candidate

Nine Announce For Hazelwood Board, Including Present Members

In a sudden flurry of activity, 11 candidates entered the political picture at Hazelwood this week, including all present members of the town administration.

By noon Thursday two persons had announced their candidacy for mayor. Clyde Fisher is seeking reelection, and will be opposed by Furman "Mutt" Tate, cafe proprietor who filed yesterday.

Two members of the board were among the first to file for reelection, Grady R. Smith and R. L. Prevost, Sr. The field was enlarged with the entry of Nathan "Frog" Hill, Ed Greer, barber; John Wyatt, grocery store proprietor; Leonard "Deacon" Woodard, taxi driver; Carl Swanger, the third member of the board; R. H. Holland, service station operator; and Tom Garrett, an employee of the Enka corporation.

It is rumored that one or two others will toss their hats in the ring for positions on the Hazelwood board, but they apparently are waiting until the last minute to announce.

With the large number of candidates and a $50,000 bond issue for street, water and sewer improvements to vote on in the May 6th election, a large turnout of voters is expected. The administration feels fairly confident that the bond vote will carry, and are seeking reelection to carry out the improvement program which they assert can be done without raising municipal taxes.

Annual Typhoid Clinics Started By Health Dept.

The annual typhoid clinics which are conducted by the county health department in the schools were started on Monday, according to an announcement by the director.

A clinic was conducted at Spring Hill on Monday and on Tuesday clinics were conducted at Rock Hill, Maggie, Dellwood and Lake Junaluska, by Mrs. Elaine Gill and Mrs. Ruby Bryson, public health nurses.

It is pointed out that the triple vaccine is a vaccine for typhoid and paratyphoid organisms, that is, typhoid-related paratyphoid strains. Since this triple vaccine has not always been available, the department here is fortunate in obtaining it this year.

In order to obtain a better degree of immunity in these related strains, a second dose of the vaccine can be obtained at the health department offices at the usual hours observed in the offices, which are in Waynesville Friday afternoons at 2 and 5 o'clock and Saturday mornings from 9:30 to 12, in Canton Monday morning from 9:30 to 11 o'clock.
