

Only One Million Americans Are 'Normal', Psychiatrist Claims

NEW YORK (AP)—Only about one million Americans are mentally normal—free from anxieties, fears or weaknesses—but they are dull, uninteresting and don't seem human, says Dr. Earl D. Bond, prominent Philadelphia psychiatrist.

Some 133 million, he adds, go about their daily business with "unnecessary handicaps or nervousness"—fears, prejudices, over-consciousness, over-sensitiveness or struggles with feeling of inferiority.

In this group are concentrated talents, leadership, and conscience, he said, while many brilliant men and women are found in a group of about 2,500,000 out-and-out neurotics.

Dr. Bond, professor of psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania, and research director of the Institute of Mental Hygiene, Philadelphia, classified the types of mental illnesses, and their possible effects on life expectancy, in a speech to the medical section of the American Life convention.

"The million at the top of the line—the perfect ones—have no anxiety, no fears, no prejudices, no attractive vices, no weaknesses," he said. "But like the few completely demented people at the

College Coach Nixes Careers

AP Newsfeatures

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Leo Houck, Penn State's boxing coach who has turned out 51 collegiate champions in 25 years, has yet to recommend a professional ring career for any of his proteges.

"Only a few of my boys have gone into professional fighting," he explains, "and they made up their minds without my help."

"Some college boys—the ones with real talent—could go into the professional ring and make good," he adds, "but unless they're extra good, I advise them to stay out and pursue the careers for which they prepared in college."

Houck says the average college boxer has no professional ambitions but takes to the sport only because he likes it and feels he would like to compete for his college.

The Penn State coach says that of the long line of champions that he has developed, only Allie Wolf, Steve Hamas and Billy Soose went into the pro boxing game. Both Hamas and Soose advanced to the big time before they withdrew from competition.

DOUBLE PAID OFF

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Roosevelt Raceway, scene of a 125-night harness racing meeting, is the only race track in the New York City area to offer a daily double. Record payoff for the double came at the Raceway on June 29, 1944, when ticket holders collected $1,262.70 for two dollars. Last year's high was $846.

other end of the line, they are not interesting. They don't seem human. This group would make very good life insurance risks, but there are not enough of them to make much difference. They would all be perfect, well rounded and equal, like a string of zeros.

"The best people are not so different from people with delusions as they think they are; they are pulled by the same great emotions and instincts. What is learned from one group has an application to all groups."

"Patients with mental disease are much more honest and outspoken about their feelings and ideas than are more normal people. They give us an insight with the working of normal minds that we get nowhere else."

Dr. Bond said it was by no means clear how much nervous symptoms decrease life expectancy, but suggested that insurance medical directors take interest in compiling records including emotional factors creating or modifying physical disease.

"Quiz Queen" Laura Bankhead Has To Know All Of The Right Answers

AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK—Miss Laura Bankhead sits eight hours a day in a New York office answering queries which range from "What makes a bubble bath bubble?" to "Should the title page of an annual report be printed entirely in capital letters?"

Director of the Greater Information Service, Miss Bankhead's desk brims over with about 50,000 questions a year, sent in by purchasers of her company's encyclopedias and the Book of Knowledge as well as by plain-stamped citizens and professional question-answerers on the radio.

"We have some very steady questioners," she said, "like the science teacher who asked a number of questions about his field. Next he asked the source of a quotation from a love-poem; then he asked about marriage laws."

"A while later he followed with a request for information on child care. Then he asked us about divorce laws."

"But we really are confused now. He is asking how long it takes a Mongolian pheasant to hatch its eggs."

An accountant wrote in complaining that he couldn't be a social success with one of his principal clients because he was unable to make a short after-dinner speech. Miss Bankhead wrote one for him.

Hundreds of queries come in about genealogy, the United Nations, the Atlantic Charter. Recently there have been many questions about mink and earth worm farming.

Just anybody can't run into the office and propound a question, however. Grolier used to give book purchasers 10 days of question answering. Nowadays the contract customers get 100 questions with a set of books. Other people can take the quiz, and a service at $25 for 10 questions.

One Of Dionne Quints Should Live To Be 86

NEW YORK (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets now are 13 years old, and at least one probably will live to be 86 or older, says the Statistical Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

On the basis of life expectancy rates among females in Canada, "the chances are about 95 in 100 that all five girls will reach their majority, about 65 in 100 that they will all attain age 45, and more than 20 in 100 that they will all five live to celebrate their 65th birthday."

It may be expected that the last survivor of the group will live to be 86, it adds. The special care given the quintuplets, and the continued general gains in life conservation, will improve their chances for long life.

Municipalities get attention in two opinions. One holds that governing boards of municipalities may issue bonds without vote of the people for erection of a water tank necessary to serve the municipality, but cannot issue bonds or levy taxes outside the corporate limits without a popular vote authorization. Another says a municipality cannot legally allow tax differentials with the corporate

IN AN EFFORT TO HOLD LUMBER PRICES AT A LOWER LEVEL

"As we all know, lumber prices have been too high; we've realized this for some time and after due consideration decided to do something about lowering them."

That is a statement from our ad. of May 30, 1947, at which time we cut all straight grade lumber to $70 per thousand, and reduced many other commodities accordingly. That was our first step in the direction of lower prices... our second step is, first, to hold prices at that level, and, second, to offer you better quality merchandise and better, more efficient service, without the customary advance in rates. This we will strive to do in the future.

We want you to feel free to call on us at any time for any service we may be able to render. Building estimates and information absolutely free and without obligation.
