Giving Cold Wave Requires Experts, Tests Now Reveal

Due to the fact that "cold waving is here to stay," every beautician should keep up on the facts.

Those who operated early in the beginning of permanent waving can remember when a "home kit" spiral equipment could be purchased for $10.00. Permanents at that time cost $50.00 and up at a beauty shop. The public soon learned that professional training was necessary to produce a good permanent and the result was "the home kit" soon fell by the wayside.

And so it is today with "home kit cold wave." It is just a matter of time until the public will learn that professional training is also necessary to use cold waving solution and that the professional cold wave is improving with such speed that the home kit will also be left by the wayside.

Mrs. Evelyn Heinz and Mrs. Ruth Craig recently visited Atlanta where they conferred with authorities on cold waving. The percentage of failures and damage to hair in cold waving, they explained, is due to the operator's lack of knowledge with respect to hair.

Cold waves are here to stay because they last longer and they are closer to the scalp.

Years of exhaustive testing of a new oil solution which is being introduced into the Personality Beauty Shop will protect the ends of the hair and prevent them from being brittle. This is the very finest cold wave ever produced and is brand new to this section of the country.

It is the only permanent with which you can successfully wave "Dyed" and "bleached" hair. It curls "baby fine" hair with no worry of breaking or fuzzing the hair.
