SNOW MAN TOO TOUGH

EVERETT, Mass. (UP) - Bruce McLean, 16, a member of the Everett high school football squad, went through the 1947 season without an injury on the gridiron. But when he made a hard flying tackle at a big snow man he had made on his lawn, he broke his collarbone and was taken to the hospital.

Orange trees are believed to have been first introduced into Florida when Spanish explorers ate imported fruit and threw the seeds away.

Green Light or Red, Girls Must Chat

WICHITA, Kans. (UP) - A policeman halted his car behind one occupied by two women as the light at an intersection turned red. The women chatted while they waited for the signal to change. It turned green. But the driver made no effort to re-start her car. She and her friend kept talking. The light turned red. Still the conversation continued. Then green again. The patrolman decided against using his horn. He stepped from his car to the window of the other machine, and remarked: "I'm sorry lady, but that is the only shade of green we have. Please drive on."

New Vitamin Credited With Aiding Growth

VIENNA (UP) - The Austrian Press Agency reported from Graz that Wilhelm Goetsch, professor at the local university, had discovered a new type of vitamin which, during experiments, "caused weight increase of newborn babies by 25 per cent." The dispatch said it had been learned that the vitamin, called "vitamin 5," caused the "speedup of cellular assimilation with mammals and plants."
