LIBRARY ON WHEELS

The following is a letter I found in "The World of Books" written by Francis T. Long and I thought you might be interested, too.

"I stood near an isolated farm house in the deep south, where on that mild day in the new year, soft winds from the Atlantic played magically upon the needle strings of the slash pines, as the bookmobile from the county seat stopped in front of the house.

Before the horn had ceased its blowing, the members of the family, already expectant, had begun thronging out of the house and surrounding the genial driver-librarian and the open, inviting shelves of this traveling library. Within a short time every member of the family group had at least one book in hand.

Greetings, merry quips, neighborly news and gossip mingled with questions about this or that book or writer. Everyone, from the gray-haired grandfather to the youngest prattling child, selected at least two volumes. Two or three of the younger members of the family had their arms full. No time limit was set upon the number of books taken; for a month must pass before the bookmobile would return to collect and exchange or renew books already out.

"At that season of the year the visit of the bookmobile was especially pleasing to those lonely residents. All the harvests had been gathered and sold or stored away. All of the land not already greenly clad with winter cover crops had been plowed and was awaiting the spring planting season. This library on wheels had brought even to such a remote and lonely spot the blessed ministry of books."

Father And Son Keep Close Step In Life

TROY, N. Y. (UP)—Robert Dennison and Robert Dennison, Jr., have added another joint accomplishment to their "like father, like son" life.

The father received the highest mark in a New York state civil service examination. His son led him in the eligibility list because he is a disabled veteran, while the elder Dennison can claim only veteran's preference.

Both were engineering aides in the state public works department until they resigned to enter Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, where both are seniors.

CHOICE BRIEFS OF CAROLINA NEWS

From The Wires of Associated Press and United Press

REP. DOUGHTON SEES TROUBLE AHEAD

Representative Robert L. Doughton, the 35-year-old dean of the House of Representatives, takes a doleful view of the state of the nation on a brief visit to North Carolina. He charges that military leaders would plunge America into war if they could.

Doughton told the Statesville Daily Record that President Truman instead of the Russians should have called a peace conference in the Berlin dispute. Mr. Doughton was on his way to Laurel Springs for a quick visit before returning to Washington.

The ranking members of the influential House ways and means committee says if the United States is not careful, as he puts it, "we'll be the warmongers and Russia will be in the position of calling the peace conferences."

He goes on to say he voted against the Marshall Plan because it plunged us into a war in China and put us in a position of supporting what he calls "rotten foreign governments."

Doughton warns that if the United States keeps trying to save the world we will need a Marshall Plan here at home. He says the United Nations should be given a chance to work under a modified organization minus the veto power.

REYNOLDS WORKERS ASK FOR CIO CONTRACT

Members of the CIO Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers Union at the R. J. Reynolds plants have submitted demands for their 1948 contract. Included in the demands is a 26 1/2-cent per hour wage increase. The Reynolds management previously had announced it will not negotiate with the FTA after the current contract expires May 31.

KILLED IN PRISON CELL

A 23-year-old man in Lenoir is charged with murder in the death of 50-year-old William Holden. The Lenoir textile worker was beaten to death last night in a jail cell after being picked up for drunkenness. The Caldwell county sheriff's office says another prisoner, Roland Gragg, has been charged with murder in the case. Deputies say two other prisoners were in the cell at the time but did not help Holden beyond asking Gragg to stop.

Travel In Forests, Park Grows

Pisgah Has Drawn More Visitors In Recent Years Than Smokies, Nantahala

Last year was the biggest travel period on record for the Pisgah and Nantahala National Forests, although the Great Smoky Mountains National Park has not yet topped the peak hit in 1941.

Figures released this week by the N. C. National Park, Parkway and Forests Development commission show that of the three areas, Pisgah forest has drawn the highest number of visitors during five of the last eight years. Nantahala forest has shown the fastest growing amount of travel of late, from 67,000 visitors during 1945 to 523,115 in the past year.

Official travel records for the three areas are as follows:

Announcing the Appointment of SOSSAMON STEEL COMPANY INC.

Sylva, N. C.—Phone 57

Asheville Office—Phone 1372

Statesville Office—Phone 950

as QUONSET* dealer for this area

Appointment of this new Quonset dealer enables your community to enjoy the use of all-steel Quonset buildings at lowest cost. Need for building expansion in this community on farms, in industry and commerce, for business and pleasure—can be met with Quonset construction right now.

No other type of building construction can offer Quonset advantages. Framed with steel and covered with steel, Quonsets are strong and durable, rot-proof, termite-proof and fire-resistant. No other building can be erected so swiftly, or is so economical to buy and maintain.

Basic advantage which makes the Quonset possible is the fundamentally different—and better—framing material which we call Stran-Steel. Lightweight all-steel framing members reach the building site fabricated to exact shape and dimensions, ready to erect with carpenter's tools. Stran-Steel studs, arch-ribs and purlins contain the patented nailing groove—which enables the erecting crews to apply exterior covering and interior materials by nailing them directly to the framing members. Wide latitude of choice for interior decorative effects is possible, and any kind of insulation may be applied—for whatever you use, you nail to Stran-Steel.

Ask your dealer to show you how these modern new Quonset buildings can meet your building problem.
