

WCTC Farm-Home Week Discussion Is Held Friday

The executive committee for resource-use education in Western North Carolina discussed semi-annual plans for the Farm and Home Week to be sponsored in August by Western Carolina Teachers College at a meeting held in the school's Student Union building last week.

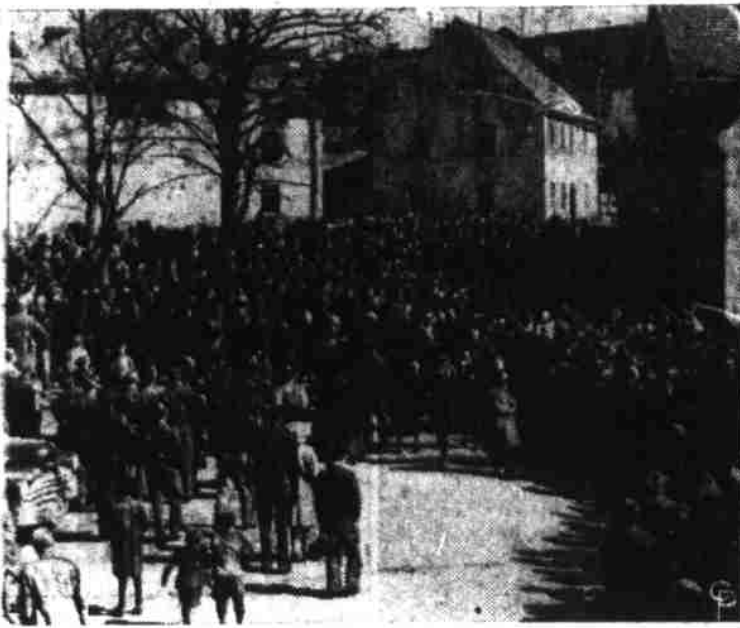

More detailed plans, including names of instructors and speakers, and a three-day program, will be worked out between now and Friday afternoon, April 30, when another meeting will be held at the same place at 1:30 o'clock and of the meeting itself.

To prepare plans, all the WCTC teachers in the area and Home Week staff will be invited to meet at the school on April 12. The staff will be made up of 12 teachers from the area and 12 from the WCTC. Throng Gathers To See German 'Miracle Woman'

HUGE CROWDS of natives and tourists are drawn to the door of Theresa Naumann (left), in Konnersreuth, Germany, to witness what has become known as "the Good Friday miracle." On that holy day, this humble woman bleeds from nail-like wounds in her hands and shoulder. They are said to closely resemble those of Jesus when he was nailed to the cross. No explanation has yet been provided to account for this phenomenon. At right is shown a section of the throng that recently gathered.

INDONESIAN POLITICIAN KNOWS FORMULA

BATAVIA, Java (AP)—Politicians looking for a magic formula for staying in office should study the career of Raden Adipati Ario Triakraningrat, 61-year-old Indonesian, for possible clues, though how he does it is not clear.

Before the war he was Dutch-appointed regent (sub-governor) of Sampang and Rongkakan on Madura island.

When the Japanese invaded they appointed him resident governor of all Madura island. He held the office until 1945, when the Japanese surrendered and the Indonesian Republic appointed him to the same job.

When the Dutch recaptured the island in their "police" action of last summer, they appointed as resident Raden Adipati.

Last Feb. 20, when the semi-autonomous state of Madura was set up, he was chosen "chief of state" for the island's 1,000,000 inhabitants—was Radh Adipati, of course.

United States wheat consumption in 1947 was about 154 pounds per person, largest on record since 1909.

REDS ARE HIT IN UMSTEAD SPEECH

Sen William B. Umstead has issued another warning against Communism.

The campaigning North Carolina senator has warned that America must be prepared to defend and preserve its national security against the Communist threat.

In a speech to the Charlotte Kiwanis club, Umstead has charged that allied unity ended with the end of hostilities in World War II. He asserted that "the unity of purpose of the Allies has slowly submerged beneath the spreading conflict between Democracy and Communism, a conflict which threatens world peace and has virtually halted the progress of the United Nations."

Umstead charges that Russia has crippled the United Nations by lack of cooperation and deliberate misuse of the veto power.

Representatives of motor carriers and shipper interest have met in Raleigh and agreed to a flat 10 per cent rate increase for intrastate freight moved by motor carriers. The new rate went into effect last week.

SENTENCED AGAIN WHILE ON PAROLE

A Dunn man recently paroled before he began serving his sentence for liquor law violations is now facing federal charges of conspiracy. He is Edgar Ivy. A federal grand jury at Fayetteville indicted him last week. At Raleigh, the Paroles Commission immediately revoked the parole.

CAMP LEJEUNE MEMORIAL WILL BE DEDICATED

Twenty-two stained glass windows will be dedicated in two Marine chapels at Camp Lejeune April 25th as memorials to Marines who died in the last war. Six Marine divisions which fought in the war donated the windows as a gift from the leathernecks to their fallen buddies.

The commandant of the Marine corps, Major General Clifton B. Cates, will attend the ceremonies. The windows in the Protestant chapel will be dedicated by Rear Admiral William N. Thomas, chief of Navy chaplains. Those in the Catholic chapel will be dedicated by the Very Rev. Fathr Ignatius Smith, dean of philosophy at Catholic University in Washington.

EXONERATED IN KILLING

A coroner's jury has ruled self-defense in the shooting of Oscar Wiley Atkins, near Mebane. Roy McAdams, Atkins' brother-in-law, has been exonerated in the killing. Funeral services for Atkins were held last week.

A species of bird, the megapode, lays its eggs in mounds of decaying vegetable matter or in sand near hot springs and leaves them to be hatched by nature.

THE CLEANING CENTER

For a complete home-cleaning center you need a variety of tools and supplies. Most important is a good vacuum cleaner because more than anything else, it helps to keep the house clean from top to bottom. For quick, convenient brush-ups, a carpet sweeper should always be at hand, and an electric polisher is a convenience for buffing waxed floors of all kinds. Add to these a choice of furniture polishes, waxes, paint cleaners, wall-paper cleaners, metal cleaners, rug and upholstery cleaners, and you'll be equipped for any cleaning problem you encounter. When stocking up, check your present equipment and supplies and browse around your favorite housewares store for new ideas.

for cleaning windows, metals, floors, furniture, for dishwashing, and for keeping our homes free from insects that destroy food, clothing, and furnishings.

Very often, special cleaners are of the "soapless" variety. Sometimes these are recommended for one specific purpose such as washing walls or cleaning woodwork. More frequently their labels recommend them for many purposes. These cleaners loosen dirt, permitting it to be wiped off easily, rather than scrubbed. The cleaners also function outstandingly well in hard water. If need be, they can be used in cold water or even salt water. Their efficiency in hard water saves considerable work particularly in dishwashing; they do not leave cloudy streaks on dishes and glassware. For some kinds of cleaning, especially walls and woodwork, special cleaners frequently need no rinsing. They are kind to paint and, when used straight from the bottle, there's no necessity for putting your hands in water.

Many shortcuts to cleaning are offered by the new special cleaners in liquid, powder and paste form. We turn to such cleaners for help in cleaning painted walls and woodwork without drudgery, for shampooing upholstery and small rugs,
