

Making Faces In Mirror Is Aid To Stutterers

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) — It isn't unusual to see students making strange faces in a huge mirror at the University of Minnesota.

It is one of the newer methods the school is trying out to cure stuttering.

Each year, the university treats about 60 stutterers and about 300 others who have speech defects. The reason for the mirror is that it reflects habits students have developed in their fight not to stutter such as deep breathing, hard swallowing and winking through their teeth.

In all, nearly 1,000 students and several non-students are treated with clinic facilities each year. Many of them are hard of hearing and because of injuries or other reasons never have heard correct pronunciation of words.

Two million students were enrolled in evening and adult classes in 1946 as part of the U. S. public school system.

Mrs. Chapman Entertains Girl Scout Board

Mrs. W. K. Chapman, president of the Hazelwood-Waynesville Girl Scout Council, was hostess of a luncheon yesterday at the Towne House in honor of Mrs. Lucy C. Stroupe, regional community adviser of Girl Scouts, who is spending a few days here.

An arrangement of yellow and red tulips centered the luncheon table and guests included the board of directors of the Scout Council.

After luncheon Mrs. Stroupe discussed various phases of Scout work and pointed out the following four objectives of the national organization for this year: 1. Belonging. That girls may learn the full meaning of the Scout laws and what it means to be a member of such an organization. 2. Resourcefulness. That girls may be prepared and learn skill that will be useful in community and world affairs as well as in emergencies. 3. Service. That girls may be taught to share responsibility and help in the community without expecting recognition. 4. International friendship. To educate the girls for democracy.

Mrs. Stroupe also pointed to the duties of the council as a whole and of the individual members, stressing the fact that the success of the Girl Scout work depends on each worker doing her part well. Those attending the luncheon included Mrs. J. P. Dicus, Mrs. Dwight Williams, Mrs. Dewey Stovall, Mrs. Lucille Toy, Mrs. Stanley Henry, Mrs. Joe Massie, Mrs. Francis Massie, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. Clarence Cathey, Mrs. Kenneth Clement, Mrs. Horace Reams and Mrs. Zeb Curtis.
