

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — New Ziegfeld Follies is off, until fall at least. Phyllis Arnold at the Glass Hat, a vocal double for Ethel Merman, was coached by the same fellow, Al Siegal, who helped Ethel make the big time. . . . Jessica Tandy used some tall conviction to make her movie bosses let her stay with "A Streetcar Named Desire" through June 1, 1948. . . . Ferruccio Busoni, eight-year-old baton prodigy, will lead the Carnegie Hall Pops orchestra during the imminent spring series. . . . Incidentally, the long-hair call Ferruccio "The Kid," making a full circle from their nickname for Arturo Toscanini "The Old Man."

"Lifetime of 1948" shattered after Easter week with 422 performances to its credit, a mighty respectable run indeed. . . . Dosty Carte Company to wind up their Broadway stay with three straight weeks of "The Mikado." . . . Last time they played "The Mikado" a few weeks ago, it grossed more than $41,000 in six days, making it by far the most popular of the G. & S. revivals.

Fletcher Markle, CBS producer, is pairing conductor Percy Faith to write the music for a Broadway musical. . . . The Three Suns, an instrumental trio, has offers to tour Japan. . . . Newest addition to Harry Conover's stable of models is Gaudina S. Vassiliou. Harry says she was a Yugoslavian Chetnik machine gunner during the war. . . . A job for ornament advertising campaign. . . . Sammy Kaye is bankrolling a new nomenclature, "The Kaye Zoo."

Bad delivery radio "Superman" is a radio drama lecturer at the Hoffman. . . . Conover carries with him unlikely names including Harry Swift, Candy Jones, whose name was given to her by her former boss, and a boss now, Harry says, says a few days ago October 1947.

And now comes the Custom Tailor Guild of America Inc. to give prizes to their custom-tailored clothing by naming the middle-named master one of America's best-dressed gents. . . . Others named besides the well-known after-chemical interest, . . . "Blunderbuss" tempoed. . . . He was built like Eisenhower of choice came only a few days after the tossed aside his military shirt for his schoolmaster's weeds.

Greasy Pork movies, which probably caused Adolph Menjou to turn up in his mustache cup. . . . Jerome Robbins' "Business" . . . Winthrop Jackson's society. . . . Edward Johnson's opera. . . . Joe DiMaggio sports at didn't specify whether it meant Joe in or out of his Yankee uniform although I suppose out, and Gardner Cowles' press.

For those who'd like to nominate themselves next year, here's what the Guild says: a gem minimum wardrobe, presumably all custom-tailored. Three sports jackets, four pairs of slacks, nine business suits, two tweed jackets, two overcoats, two summer tuxedos, one regular tuxedo, four hats and 11 pairs of shoes. Practically enough to start a town, Ed says.

Has Frost Defeated
The cranberry grower is the only agricultural producer who has a sure method of frost protection. Cranberry bogs are surrounded and real through with a network of ditches leading from a reservoir. When frost threatens, the grower releases water from the reservoir to fill the ditches and flood the bog. Since water, on frosty nights, is always warmer than air, the vapor rising from the water protects the cranberry vines against frost.

DEATH TUNED IN ON LAST SONG

RADIO MASTER OF CEREMONIES "Dud" Williamson, Los Angeles, must have suspected that death had tuned in on his last song for, in this remarkable photo, he had dropped his guitar in his lap and was feeling his pulse when a friend, Irving Minors, snapped the picture. They had been talking about the sudden death of famous broadcaster Tom Breneman when Williamson remarked that he'd be "doing a Breneman" if he didn't get a rest. A moment later he fell dead. They Also Served
Spahis is a term now applied to certain Algerian and Tunisian cavalry troops. It is a corps of Algerian native cavalry in the French army normally serving in Africa, half of whose officers below the rank of captain and all of that rank or above are French. It originally was composed largely of Turkish spahis serving in Algeria at the French conquest in 1830. The term applied to the irregular Turkish cavalrymen, who were from 1328 a formidable body in the army of the sultan.

New England Forests
First state forest in New England was provided for by legislation of the Connecticut general assembly. First purchase was made in 1903, a tract of 70 acres in the town of Portland, acquired for $105.

Surviving are the parents, the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Goodson, of Route 1, Waynesville; the maternal grand-

LABOR SAVING INCREASES

In 1855 it took 38 hours and 45 minutes to produce an acre of corn. Now it takes five hours and 21 minutes. That the labor saving from farm machinery has been progressive is shown by comparison with a more recent year. In 1942 total farm production was more than a third greater than in 1919 although there were 6.5 per cent fewer persons on the farm to accomplish it. In 1942 each farm fed six more persons than 23 years before, and the income per person on farms was 22 per cent greater. To have harvested our 1942 wheat crop by the methods of 1850 would have meant using every able-bodied person in the United States and also importing millions of foreign hands.

Domestic Rubber Supply
In 1940, says a Twentieth Century Fund report, domestic supply of rubber was less than 15 per cent of the 757,000 tons of rubber consumed in the United States. Since that time, however, we have built up a domestic productive capacity of approximately 900,000 tons. Approximately three-fourths of the crude rubber consumed in the United States goes into tires and tubes.

What It Takes FOR HEAVY
When you buy a GMC for heavy hauling, you get that heavy-duty and all-truck GMC heavy-duty frames . . . with wide, thick-plate axles to match. They have heavy, husky axles and brakes that combine to provide as many as 15 forward gears and 21 inch diameter . . . heavy-duty engines are powerful valve-in-heads with Tocco-hardened crankshafts and many other durability features. Yes, GMC heavy-duty trucks have "what it takes" . . . and many models are now available.
