INGENUITY FINDS LOST MAIL SACK

ENTERPRISE (UP)—A friend came up with the solution to Keith and Kay Rutz's embarrassing problem.

A paper sack in which they were taking home some letters from the postoffice was blown away by a gust of wind.

Among the letters was a $100 government check for their ex-soldier brother, Orville.

The youngsters were worried sick when a search failed to find the missing sack.

So they consulted Postmaster C. H. Johnson. He suggested losing a similar paper at the same spot.

The boys did. The wind whipped the second sack, its flight followed by the scampering youths, to railroad tracks.

Four feet away was the small mail sack.

Bar Thieving Squirrels From Candy Jackpot

ST LOUIS (UP)—The squirrels in Forest Park won't find the nuts in the candy vending machines such easy pickings now.

Park attendants solved the mystery of the vanishing nut bars when they found squirrels were squeezing through the delivery vents to get at the candy.

The vending machine distributor fixed that by putting small doors on the openings.
