

With The Weather Department Doris Day Can Always Find Work

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Doris Day is perhaps the only movie star with a built-in barometer.

Miss Day always knows when it's going to rain. She can feel it in her bones.

"It's my broken leg," she explained. "It doesn't exactly ache, but whenever a rainstorm is coming up it always feels as if it's going to."

This valuable talent for picnics, movie locations and knowing when to wear her rubbers is part compensation for a tragic accident that kept the pert blonde in a hospital bed for 14 months.

She was 16 and well on her way to a successful dancing career when, near Hamilton, O., the car in which she was riding hit a train and her leg was broken in several places.

Learns to Sing
"The doctors said I might never even walk again," she said. "So I learned how to sing instead."

The time came when she could have gone on dancing, but she was singing so well she didn't have to. She became a successful dance band singer and never danced professionally again until she worked in Michael Curtiz's "My Dream Is Yours" at Warner Bros.

She leads a line of Hawaiian dancers of the rhythm of "Nagasaki" in the movies.

"When I was feeling my very lowest, and my leg ached and it seemed as if my world had come to an end," Miss Day said, "my brother Paul used to make me laugh by telling me that some day I'd realize the accident was really a lucky break. That was after I'd become famous as a weather forecaster."

"The funny thing was that he was right in a way. My lucky break, learning to sing, came about certainly because of the bad breaks in my leg."

Non-Shrink Sox To Please Dad

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The best Father's Day gift most dads could have would be socks that won't shrink.

The plaintive howls emitted by the man of the family when he opens his sock drawer to find his best golf socks shrunk to a size to fit a six-year-old boy have at last borne fruit.

There's a new knitting yarn on the market which has been chemically treated to prevent shrinking, and smart daughters are using it to knit the most popular Father's Day gifts of the year.

A handsome pair of Argyle's knit of shrink-resistant yarn, would be the answer to practically any father's fondest wish.

The shrink-resistant process has been used heretofore in certain fabrics, with gratifying results, but its appearance in knitting yarns is strictly new.

Socks made of the new "wonderized" yarn can be tossed in with the family wash and will come out with colors still clear and bright and size unchanged.

Tests made of garments knit of treated and untreated wool showed the former shrank a negligible 2 1/2 per cent after 15 washings, while the latter lost more than 62 per cent of its original size. The treated wool also remained soft and un-matted, while the untreated was deemed unserviceable after the fifth washing.

WELL-HEELED . . . This lucky dad gets the ideal Father's Day gift—a pair of Argyles hand-knit of shrink-resistant yarn which will keep them true to size.

We'll Get That Window Yet, Aging Coach Says
RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—Each afternoon this baseball season the neighbors have watched an elderly gray-haired man pitch to a seven-year-old boy on the 4300 block, Old Brook Rd.

They predict that another Babe Ruth is in the making. But they feel sure, too, that practice on the lawn is nearing an end.

From dribbling grounders to pop flies to healthy whacks, the neighbors have watched the boy's batting eye improve.

One afternoon the youngster leaped into a fast one and poled a long fly that thudded against an opposite apartment building a scant two inches beneath a window.

The neighbors with alarm overheard the elderly gentleman remark as he retrieved the ball:

"We'll get that doggone window yet."

Dayton Rubber Produces New Rubber For Tires

Passenger tires with the new man-made wonder rubber, Ultipara, are being offered motorists for the first time in Western North Carolina, according to W. A. Bradley of the W. A. Bradley & Co. local distributor for Dayton ThoroBred Tires.

Ultipara, a synthetic rubber produced under a new low temperature process is said to exceed the best natural rubber for tread wear and resistance to cracking by 20% to 30%.

Ultipara was first produced by the Copolymer Corporation, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, a government owned synthetic rubber plant, operated by a number of independent rubber companies.

The low temperature process of bringing together Butadiene and Styrene basic ingredients was picked up by United States Government technicians when visiting Germany after the War. These

Young 'Tarzan' Pops Up In Court

LONDON (UPI)—Sydney Shaw's hero is Tarzan.

Police found out in court how 17-year-old Shaw's hero worship paid off.

Shaw, arrested for breaking a traffic law, got tired of waiting for his jail lunch. He tore off and broke in two a cast iron feeding hatch of his cell.

"I get impatient. I get hold of things like that or this," he said, grabbing the edge of the witness box.

"Stop that," said the magistrate's clerk. "We don't want you pulling the dock to pieces."

Shaw's mother said:

"He can eat a two-pound loaf made into four sandwiches at a sitting. If he fails to eat three plates of potatoes, we wonder what is wrong."

"When he was 10, he saw Johnny Weissmuller as Tarzan and since then he has not missed a Tarzan film. After the first film he climbed a big tree in our back garden and built himself a wooden hideout."

"Within a few weeks he was swinging from the branches, uttering cries."

"He never knocks on the door when he comes home. He opens the letter box and sends through a special Tarzan scream."

"Since he was about 14 he has been using a hundredweight bar to develop his muscles and he throws it up and catches it without any effort."

Camels can drink 12 or 15 gallon of water in half an hour.
