Our Musical Concerts

A group of citizens interested in music, began an active campaign yesterday to sell memberships to the first annual Haywood County Community Concert Association, which will bring here some leaders of the music world.

Heretofore, only residents of large cities have had the opportunity of hearing some of the better known musical artists, unless one traveled to the large cities. In recent years plans have been worked out whereby the artists go to a selected number of small towns and give concerts.

This area is fortunate in having enough interested citizens to set up such an organization, and get out and work for such a worthwhile undertaking.

This is just another example of what co-operation will do, and the love for finer things—yes, this is further proof that this is a good place to live.

A Growing Industry

Apple trucks are beginning to roll out of Haywood orchards, carrying the first of the half million dollar crop to market. Haywood has a good crop of quality apples this year, and the growers have started an advertising campaign that will no doubt put local apples in places where they have not been before.

The apple crop in Haywood provides an income about the same as an industrial plant employing 120 men averaging $50 per week. Many of us do not often think of the crop in those terms, but it is a fact, and an income that has a bright future for even larger development than the present scale.

Looking Ahead Is Thrifty

Satesville is a progressive town of some 12,000 people, and recently some modern fire fighting equipment was bought, including a unit that carries a ladder that will reach eight stories high. Right now no Satesville building is that high, but the city fathers are looking ahead, prepared for the future. Had such a practice been followed in all municipal affairs in North Carolina during the past 50 years there would have been millions of dollars saved.

A Fine Showing

The exhibits of livestock and crops by members of the Waynesville 4-H Clubs, the FFA and Veteran Farmers here last weekend was everything that was expected—excellent exhibits that will encourage and promote a spirit of improvement as the years go on.

In viewing the exhibits one realized just how much could be done with a county-wide fair, when properly promoted and staged, and the center of interest on the exhibits and not a mid-way unfit for human ears and eyes.

The showings made by the young farmers here last week-end were a credit to them and their sponsors.

Could Be a Blessing

Several weeks ago this newspaper carried an editorial on the closing of the Depot at Clyde. It proved a little pre-mature, although we had the facts in hand, the date was set up to October first, instead of September first for the closing.

The closing of the agency, as we explained in our first editorial, is just a general trend of the times, and a policy in keeping with railroads throughout the nation.

This action on the part of the Southern Railway should prompt civic leaders of Clyde to seek an industry or industries that would mean the restoration of the depot. In that event, the action of the railroad would prove to be beneficial to all concerned.

Looking Back Over The Years

15 YEARS AGO Haywood County Hospital is on list of approved hospitals of American College of Surgeons.
Mrs. Grady Boyd and her small daughter, Barbara, are slightly injured in automobile accident which occurred on Main Street.
Interested parties are working through the District Chamber of Commerce to establish a creamery here.
Judge and Mrs. Frank Smithers celebrate twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.
A. J. Hutchins, superintendent of Canton schools, opposes the addition of a twelfth grade in State Schools. He prefers a nine-month school term over the present eight-month term.
W.P.A. Sewing rooms are progressing. 14 sewing machines are being used by women.
Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Martin observe their fiftieth wedding anniversary.
Little Bette Hannah has birthday party at her home.
Dealers say shortage of coal is temporary. They agree that it is impossible to get coal now but feel the situation will improve after the middle of November.
Business places and homes to be inspected for fire hazards, in observance of Fire Prevention Week.
H. R. Hall is named manager of Belk-Hudson to succeed J. C. Jennings who was recently called into service.
Mr. and Mrs. Rung close Green Tree Tea Room for indefinite period.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin and daughter, Miss Eloise Martin, return from Sioux City where they visited Lt. Fred Martin, Jr.

Freedom Train Stops In Biltmore

People throughout this section of North Carolina are participating in the observance of Freedom Train Rededication Week, being observed nationally as the Freedom Train moves across the nation from coast to coast.

The highlight of the observance in Western North Carolina will be the arrival of the Freedom Train which will be open to the public at Biltmore Tuesday, October 5. The train, sponsored by the American Heritage Foundation, contains 127 priceless documents of historic interest, showing the foundations and growth of American liberty.

The observance is being stressed locally through the churches, schools and civic organizations. Many people from Waynesville will join the thousands from throughout the western section to visit the train, and observe the documents it contains. However, it will perhaps not be possible for everyone to go through the train, since a single day's crowd is limited to 10,000 persons.

Among the documents to be displayed on the Freedom Train are the original manuscript draft of the Declaration of Independence by Thomas Jefferson, and the Bill of Rights, first 10 amendments to the Constitution which were ratified and made a part of the Constitution in 1791.

Peggy McCracken Heads Clyde Glee Club Group

The Clyde High School Glee Club, which has a membership of 39 students, last week elected Peggy McCracken, senior, president for this school term.

This organization under the direction of Mrs. Lyle Jones, public school music teacher, plans a number of special programs for the year. Other officers selected are Barbara McKinney, vice-president; Alice Neal Medford, secretary; Bill Thompson, treasurer; Freds Grey Higgs, program chairman; Paul Sanford, social chairman; and Dale Medford, publicity chairman.

WASHINGTON — The nation's first military aircraft with engines was a blimp. Designated Signal Corps Airship No. 1, it was acquired by the Army a year before it was built.

The Wright brothers' plane, which has been in a British Museum since 1928, will soon be enroute to the United States and its permanent home at the Smithsonian Institution. Last February, executors of the estate of the late Orville Wright, who died Jan. 30, announced that in going through his files they had determined it was Wright's intention to return the Kitty Hawk to the United States and place it in the custody of the National Museum.

The craft was flown for the first time by Orville and Wilbur Wright at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903. Orville sent the plane to England in 1928 because of a dispute with the Smithsonian over credit for designing the first flyable craft. He asked for its return in 1943. News the plane was to be returned to the United States was received with enthusiasm by Smithsonian officials. Plans are to hang the Kitty Hawk in the spot now occupied by the plane which Charles A. Lindbergh flew to Paris in 1927.

THIEF MISSES BET CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — A thief stole an automobile owned by Leo F. Manley, drove it a few blocks and then abandoned it after striking two parked cars. So great was his haste he failed to look in an envelope that lay on the front seat. It contained $150.

The Lions Club, 10 Years Of Service

Thursday night marked the 10th anniversary of the Waynesville Lions Club, an organization that is a dynamo of energy for its members as well as their paramount interest—light conservation.

It would be hard to enumerate the scores of projects which the members of the club have headed during the past few years, and the good work which the club has done in promoting and assisting with general county-wide improvement projects.

The Lions have carried on a Christmas cheer fund for a number of years, and have brought happiness to untold hundreds by their untiring efforts during the holiday season.

Effortless to say, the Lions Club is a distinct asset to this area, and we wish for their every continued success as they enter their eleventh year. They can truthfully look back on their first ten as years of fruitful success.

A Needed Service

Monday marked the opening of the annual fire prevention week, which is always observed throughout the years in many ways.

The annual event always comes at this time of the year, when fires are re-kindled in homes and offices, and the fire hazards are increased. Too often neglected heating systems are fired without being inspected, or broken repairs were not made, and the results are sometimes heavy.

The suggestion has been made from time to time that a crew of highly specialized inspectors be brought here, without charge, to make a survey of every piece of business property, and also in the residential sections, and point out the hazards to property owners. This would be on a voluntary basis, yet beneficial in many ways.

The average community often feels that the situation is well in hand, and does not need any outside suggestions. We feel the reverse here would be welcomed, and cannot conceive of any property owner but what would gladly and readily welcome such a service.

Too often it is those little things that draw our attention that cause the greatest damage, and these specialists are trained to look for just that.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

Will alcohol make a man unfaithful? Answer: Not all by itself. A person who is intoxicated may become confused as to his whereabouts or the identity of those around him—for example, so as to attack someone against whom he has no real grievance. But the impulses which he gives way to are the same he has, but won't express, when he is sober. A desire to be unfaithful—or to find a woman who will treat him more indulgently than he believes his wife does—might unconsciously inspire a man to drink to kill his inhibitions, but liquor cannot create such a desire.

superficial and misleading, even though they consciously believe them. The most frequent cause of suicide is "a deep sense of guilt, with an unquestionable penchant for self-punishment," often going to the point of severe mental illness. But many young people make suicide attempts to punish those who have been unkind to them.

Should babies be weaned "by rule"? Answer: No, says Dr. Benjamin Spock, eminent child psychiatrist. Most so-called naughtiness in little children grows out of a sense of insecurity that centers around feeding problems. A child who is not fed when he's hungry, or is forced to give up his familiar foods for strange ones too abruptly, may become hostile—and even remains so ever after. It's much more important that a child begin life with a sense of being loved and secure than that his development should follow any rigid, predetermined schedule.

Bits Of Human Interest News Picked Up By — Of The Mountaineer Staff —

It is hard to say whether or not personal enmity or an accident, but some car certainly got stuck with a parking meter on Main street. It was rammed by the meter that a blow torch was used to get into use to sever it from contact with the city.

CHANGES NEEDED? Back yonder in 1925-35 North Carolina people thought they had a good State Agriculture Department, when Kerr Scott became Commissioner in 1937 they found this department was in a deplorable condition. Scott jacked it up and made it click. He revamped it, let air in the windows and brought it into one of the most efficient agriculture departments in the nation.

Letters To The Editor

LAW SHOULD BE CHANGED Editor The Mountaineer: Some people know that some years ago the State Legislature passed an act known as the Law of Loyalty. The first section reads as follows: "Section 1. That for the purpose of promoting loyalty and respect for the State, and inasmuch as a special act of the Legislature for the purpose of creating an emblem of the State known as the North Carolina State Flag, that it is the duty of every citizen to use and display the same on public buildings of the State."
