4 Service Men

Methodist church, and burial will be in the VFW Memorial plot in Bon-A-Venture cemetery.

Li. Curtis was employed by the Houston division of the Champion Paper and Fibre company when he enlisted in the Air Force in June, 1942.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Nell Curtis of Canton; a sister, Miss Sue Curtis, who has postponed a planned trip to Germany for government service pending arrival of the body; and a son, Charles "Skeeter" Curtis, 12.

Details as to the arrival of the body and the funeral of S. Sgt. Dayton, were not available late yesterday, but his family have been advised that the body was being shipped.

These men are among the 35 Western North Carolina service

Bear Hunt

Campbell, Sr., with a bear grin on his face. The 27 other hunters were of the same opinion. Doubtless this was a "once in a life-time experience" for all the hunters.

The hunters on the two-day hunting period were: Tom Campbell, Sr., Dr. N. M. Medford, Dr. Phil Medford, Alonzo McGaha, Oliver Rothbone, Rufe Sutton, Ethen Evans, Roy Smith, Arthur Lewis, Larry Caldwell, Tom Campbell, Jr., Leon Killian, Jr., Fred Campbell, Bob Boone, Paul Ferguson, Glenn Muse, Fred Farmer, Glenn Rogers, Chief Orville Noland, Dill J. Howell, Sobe Bryson, Paul Clay, Ralph Summerrow, A. T. Ward, Felix Stovall, Mont Wright, Dick Bradley and E. T. Sawyer.

Sidelights of Hunt

Chief Noland saw two bears up a tree several hundred yards away from where the party was gathered, but it was too late to go back and get them.

Alvin Ward shot at two bears at one time. Tom Campbell, Sr., loaned his gun and had several good chances to kill them. One time he almost threatened to throw a rock at one, since it was so close to him.

Three of the five bears killed were treed by the dogs. Mr. Campbell remarked that the story "sounds more like fiction, than a bear hunt." Three bears almost ran over Tom Campbell, Jr., and he failed to see them as he was occupied on helping bring out a bear killed a few minutes earlier. A heavy thicket hid his view from the trio of animals.

The incident "loaded with bear" certainly was true of the 25 hunters that went on the two-day hunt. men who are being returned at this time. Carl Bonham, son of T. M. Bonham of Arden, formerly of Canton route 1, and the late Sophia Cabe Bonham, is also among those arriving in the states at this time. It is understood that his body will be re-interred in the family plot in Oak Grove cemetery near Canton on arrival.

Youth In Barricaded Home Battles Policemen

Ray Aldridge (right), 21-year-old ex-convict, sits in police headquarters after barricading himself in the home of his parents at Gastonia, and fighting a two and a half hour battle with officers. Two policemen and two bystanders were shot and wounded during the siege. Officers finally drove him out with tear gas and he surrendered. Officials said the youth chased other members of the family from the house after an argument before the siege started. Officers and spectators left surrounded the house just after the youth surrendered. (AP Photo).

Adult Education Program Discussed By State Group

A broad program of adult education should be undertaken in North Carolina immediately to take care of 78.8 per cent of her population who have not finished high school, the State Education Commission has recommended.

According to the federal census of 1940, North Carolina ranks sixth from the bottom among the states in the median number of years of schooling completed by persons 25 years and older. More than 95,000, or one of every 17 of these, have not completed the first grade. One of every five has not advanced beyond the fourth grade, two out of five have not gone beyond the eighth grade, and barely more than one of every five has finished high school.

From April 1942 to March 1943 selective service rejected from 12 to 13 of every 100 North Carolinians called for service in the armed forces because they could not read or write as well as a pupil who had completed four years in the elementary school. About one-third of these were whites; two-thirds were Negroes.

"The educational status of North Carolina's adult population points to the conclusion that many of her citizens cannot discharge their right of franchise intelligently," the Commission said in a report to the Governor. "It is not surprising that many parents find themselves woefully inadequate in assuming the complicated responsibilities of parenthood and child rearing. Planned adult education is necessary to bring all to a level of effective citizenship and to make it possible to go on learning in order to keep up with the changing world."

According to the President's Commission on Higher Education "we need, and need quickly, to have millions of our fellow citizens become more literate and competent in matters political, economic and cultural," because "in the next few years, the citizens of our country must make their great decisions. The changes that we may make on the elementary, high school and junior - college levels now cannot affect our political action in the years immediately ahead. In our democracy the great choices must be made by the voters, the adult population, educated or not, and that is why more adequate education on the adult level has to be provided as soon as possible."

How many adults want an opportunity to engage in some kind of study? A Gallup Poll, taken in 1944, revealed that 34 per cent of the American adults wanted to enroll in some kind of study group when the war was over. On July 6, 1947 when the poll was reported again, two out of every five adults (41 per cent) of voting age said they wanted to engage in some kind of study.

North Carolina has no state plan or program of adult education. The one recommended by the Commission would be developed under the sponsorship and authority of the local administrative units under rules and regulations prescribed by the State Board of Education. Local schools would be used as centers of adult education. Existing voluntary agencies, including some 32 organizations who are carrying on some sort of adult education, would be organized as service agencies. The State Board

Deaths - Funerals

MRS. OLLIE H. STAMEY

Funeral services for Mrs. Ollie Henson Stamey, 70, who died Wednesday at noon in the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. R. Rhinehart, near Canton, were held Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in Spring Hill Baptist church.

The Rev. Gay Chambers and the Rev. Thomas Erwin officiated and burial was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Stamey was a lifelong resident of Haywood county.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Arch Stamey, Mrs. Perry Cook, Mrs. Edwin Pless and Mrs. Rhinehart, all of Haywood county; two sisters, Mrs. J. M. Queen of Candler and Mrs. Nettie Moore of Lexington.

Also four brothers, Luther Henson and Mont Henson of Haywood county; Lucius Henson of Orlando, Fla., and M. C. Henson of Candler; 20 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Wells Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

of Education would regulate the program and provide leadership.

It is estimated that 5,368 administrators, organizers, teachers, and discussion and community leaders are now connected with adult educational activities. Only 108 of this number are full-time, paid leaders or directors. Only three in four of the 52 organizations depending their work to the State Education Commission indicated they had enough teachers, and only a few said their teachers were properly trained.

A great majority of the organizations, the Commission told Governor Cherry, are aware of the existence of gaps in their programs. Among other things, they would like to be able to provide consultant services to business and industry; speech and reading clinics; cooperative education classes and groups for urban women who are not now reached by clubs; safety education; social hygiene; education for parenthood; increased use of libraries; and improved opportunities for young adults.

The aims of adult education go far beyond the objective of making all of the people literate. "The purpose," the Commission explains, "is more than to make up for the deficiencies of earlier education; it is to enable the citizens of the state to get new facts, meet intelligently new problems, and keep on growing intellectually and culturally."

Pigeon Club

They must be written on a plain sheet of paper which bears nothing but the slogan entry. The name and address of the writer should be enclosed on a separate sheet of paper.

All entries must be received not later than November 25, 1948. Address all entries to Post Office Box 328, Canton, N. C. The board of directors of the Club, who will act as judges, will base their decision on originality and suitability to the Club's aims, and their decision will be final. Winners will be announced at the Club's regular December meeting, the 9th.

As an indication of the type of slogan they want, the directors suggested these examples: "Builders of a Better Community"; "Dedicated to Community Service"; "They pointed out that the Club's constitution outlined its principal aim was to aid in promoting the economic, educational, agricultural, and spiritual welfare of the community."

All school children in the county were especially urged by the directors to enter the contest, as well as adult citizens.

The regular November meeting of the Club was held at the Bethel School cafeteria Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

TEST AIR FOR SMOG DEATH

SEEKING THE SOURCE of the lethal fumes which caused the deaths of persons in Donora, Pa., two chemists, Dr. H. S. Gills (left) and Dr. Beebe, gather samples of air for analysis. The smogging plant, American Steel and Wire Co. was shut down when the smogging fumes might have mixed with the smog. (International Newsphoto)
