Deaf And Dumb, Publishes Paper

AP Newsfeatures
 DUPREE, S. D.—A newspaper publisher who can neither hear nor speak? Yes, there's one.
 He's E. L. Schetnan of Dupree's West River Progress, a balding homesteader in his early 60's. He done well in his uphill fight.
 He came to this country as a penniless Norwegian immigrant boy.
 He was stricken almost immediately after arriving with spinal meningitis, which deafened him permanently within 15 minutes.
 Thus handicapped and alone in a strange land, he managed to learn English while washing dishes for a livelihood.
 He entered a school for the deaf in the lowest class, and was graduated two years later at the head of his class.
 For two years he studied journalism at St. Olaf's College, Northfield, Minn., took one of the first homesteads in this area, and 27 years ago he acquired his own newspaper.
 Loss of hearing and consequent impairment in speaking is not so great an obstacle to newsgathering as many persons might surmise. Schetnan scribbled to an interviewer.
 "I always carry a pen and a reporter's pad, am not abashed over asking people for news. Since everyone knows me and I know everyone within 50 miles, newsgathering is a lark."
 No one has ever accused him of misquoting. He has all remarks down in his sources' own handwriting.
SMOKERS RESTRICTED
 CHICAGO (U.P.)—A city ordinance makes it illegal to smoke in retail stores employing 15 or more persons, or in public elevators. The fine for violation is $5.

Meeting in quarterly session in the Methodist Church Annex in Sylva last week, the group named Ross Caldwell of Cherokee vice-president and re-elected Charles M. Douglas of Brevard as secretary.

Letters To Editor

Editor The Mountaineer:
 I was particularly interested in the feature "Looking Back Over The Years," in the Jan. 18 issue of The Mountaineer, under the heading "Ten Years Ago" you mention Sam Arrington and James Francis, ex-high school students and FFA leaders.
 It is of much interest to me, as it must be to all who are interested in Vocational Education, to know from time to time, if our former "stars" are following even a related vocation or profession.
 I see these two young men occasionally and it is gratifying to know they are in related agriculture pursuits. James is assistant, or associate, professor of Horticulture at State College, Raleigh, and Sam represents a nationally known feed company, assisting farmers in meeting their feed problems and solving problems in production of livestock. His headquarters is Morganton, I believe.
 Very truly yours,
 J. C. BROWN, Ex-Teacher,
 Vocational Agriculture.
