COLDS ARE COLDS

NEW YORK (UP)—The Na... tional Better Business Bureau has warned, with the advent of winter, that no known medical product can be advertised truthfully as a preventative or cure for the common cold. It said a product should be advertised only as relief for some specific symptom.

Is Junior's Popularity A Bad Break?

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

If Junior seems to be constantly bandaged, if he seems to suffer one accident after another, here's good news for you mothers...

It's because he is a popular youngster.

The number of injuries children get is a measure of their friendships, Dr. Elizabeth M. Fuller, associate professor of child welfare at the University of Minnesota, has found in a study of children who are always getting hurt. She found, also, that children who had a lot of accidents seem to have the same group of personality traits.

What this group of personality traits adds up to is that the child is usually the most desirable child. He is brighter, more alert, more active and more popular—more popular because the child who doesn't just sit back, the one that does things, attracts the admiration of his companions and just naturally makes more contacts with others.

Of course, he isn't perfect. He is sometimes rude. He may be a daredevil, impulsive, impatient and sometimes obstinate, Dr. Fuller says.

These traits all are related to the number of injuries a youngster gets. For example, a child who is bright and alert also is distracted more easily.

While hanging by his knees from an exercise ladder, the alert boy is apt to be distracted by some other happening in the room and, as a result, is maybe more likely to take a tumble than the child whose attention hasn't strayed from his own activity.

The accident-prone child is generally well-developed physically. He has what educators call better motor coordination, better control of his legs and hands, for instance.

This, in a way, helps him to avoid even more injuries than he does get. If he slips while hanging from the ladder, he has a better chance of catching himself and preventing a fall.

Nevertheless, the physically able child gets himself into many more situations that lead to accidents.

As a rule, the air moves as wind from west to east in the United States.

Skunk, Owl And Fox Make Night Lively

MINERAL WELLS, Tex. (UP)—Alex Price didn't get much sleep the night a skunk, a hoot owl, and a fox decided to visit his place.

He first was awakened by his wife, who insisted something was bothering the chickens. Price chased a skunk off with a rock.

About the time he got back to sleep, there came the voice of the owl. Price got up and shooed it off.

Next, as he dozed, well, there was the fox. Price got up again and chased the fox off.

Near dawn, Price got back to sleep once more. Then he was awakened by the alarm clock.

Jane Wyman Sure Bet For Academy Award In March

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Jane Wyman, who spent years in and out of the movies as a chorus hooper and blues singer, has suddenly been acclaimed as one of the town's top actresses.

Miss Wyman may well get an Academy award in March for her portrayal of a deaf and dumb slavey in Warners' "Johnny Belinda". But before she made that she was No. 1 woman in a No. 2 western and third lead in Cole Porter's life.

The brown-eyed blonde has been climbing up the Hollywood ladder ever since she was eight. She came to Hollywood then because her mother thought she ought to be in pictures. Nobody else thought so.

She came back when she was 15 and broke down Hollywood doors for four years. All she got were jobs as a hooper.

Talent Unrecognized

Miss Wyman got her first noticeable role in 1936. Nobody recognized this Academy Award talent then, either. She had spent the last 12 years feeding gags to Jack Carson and being the hero to Ann Sheridan in such assembly-line items as "Smart Blonde," "You're in the Army Now," "Make Your Own Bed," "The Doughgirls," "Footlight Serenade," etc.

The lady says she didn't mind.

"It was comedy that first brought me luck in motion pictures," she said. "Nobody likes to laugh more than I. I don't want to be a big dramatic actress for keeps."

She says her latest picture, "A Kiss in the Dark," is about as big a contrast to "Johnny Belinda" as she can imagine.

"I'm sure people expected me to take another serious role, but I don't want them to know what to expect," she said. "It's not good to have people think, 'Oh, Jane Wyman's in the picture, I'll bring an extra handkerchief'."
