To Appear Here On Thursday

Under the direction of Dr. Benjamin Swalin, the Little Symphony will appear here on March 17 to present concerts at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 830 o'clock in the evening at the Waynesville High School auditorium.

The afternoon concert by the Little Symphony is a free program for high school students which will melude compositions with special appeal for a youthful audience. The students themselves, will participate in the program; singing a home and also taking part in a munical quiz game. The program will feature an original composition by a young North Carolinian. Julia Deskins, of Green-boro.

This program will be broadcast over station WHCC so that all children in the county will have an opportunity to hear it.

For the evening concert Dr Swalm has chosen a varied program including selections by Mozact, Tahaikowsky and Handel. The Little Symphony as well as the Full North Carolina Symphony, is partially financed by membership sub-criptions throughout the state and by an appropriation made Representative Of by the State Legislature, both of which make possible the free children's concerts
