

Haywood To Have Large Group At Demo Dinner

Haywood is slated to have one of the largest delegations in the state at the Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Raleigh Saturday night.

Mrs. Edith P. Alley, who is handling the details for the Democratic dinner for Haywood, said yesterday that possibly fifteen from this county would attend. Sam Rayburn will be the speaker, and Vice President Alben Barkley is to attend. Jonathan Daniels who is in charge, said, "This will be one of the great political occasions in the history of the state."

Mrs. Alley said that among the Haywood citizens attending would include C. E. Brown, W. G. Byers, Richard Queen, all of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, Bryon Medford, John Queen, Miss Catherine Queen, Rep. Grover C. Ivis, William Medford, R. H. Coleman, W. J. Danforth, T. L. Gwyn, Ernest McCracken and Mrs. Alley.

Clyde Committees Named For Community Program

Committees for the community development program in the vicinity South of Clyde were named at a meeting of the organization's officers and leaders Monday night at Louisa Chapel.

Clyde Group To Meet On Friday

The monthly Sunday School officers, workers and teachers council of the Clyde Baptist church will be held in the basement of the church Friday.

The Sunday School lessons for April will be presented respectively by John Hall, Mrs. Howard Shook, Mrs. Sidney Haynes and Stany Livingston.

Following the presentation of the lessons, two motion pictures will be shown: "Book of Books," bound, and distributed; and "Tips for Teachers," a study of methods and techniques in teaching Sunday School lessons.

in costs in spite of the fact that there is a general uniformity in the type of persons cared for in the home.

Mr. Thompson added that the report "does seem to point to an urgent need for each county to make a study of the maintenance costs of its county home in light of the needs of the county and the quality of care being given."

The results of this survey should then be considered in comparison with cost estimates of providing the required services in licensed boarding and nursing homes or in other facilities which might be utilized.

In the state as a whole, there were an average 2,256 persons in all county homes each day. The total cost of maintenance was more than one and a quarter million dollars.

ing her as "the woman who had rendered the most service to Haywood County."

Mrs. C. O. Newell of Clyde, Route 1, wife of the pastor of the Crabtree Methodist Circuit, told her audience:

"I have worked with county agents in eight counties—from Morehead City to Bryson City, but I have found no agent as thorough in her preparation, as understanding, as helpful, as competent who has her heart in her work, as I have found in Miss Mary Margaret Smith."

Turning to Miss Smith, she said: "Your work, like so many other jobs that deal with human beings, cannot all be tabulated into statistics."

"In promoting better homes, gardens, health, sewing, family living, you have released an influence that passes from mother to daughter, father to son, generation after generation."

Mrs. Newell told how six clubs that were organized during the first year Miss Smith came to the county grew to a score with a membership of 485 women with an active county council as an advisory board to the home agent.

She gave Miss Smith credit for having organized "the largest group of women under any one banner in our county."

Mrs. Newell pointed out that "this organization does not take women out of their homes, but helps them to become better homemakers right in their own homes."

The county's 4-H Club boys and girls expressed their appreciation through their county council president, Miss Nancy Boston of Bethel School, and the men of the farms paid their respects through A. J. McCracken, a prominent Haywood farmer.

County Agent Wayne Corpening said: "A person who spends all her time and all her life to make better rural living is a great person."

"And that's you, Mary Margaret," he concluded, turning to the Home Demonstration Agent, Wayne himself last month was named Man of the Year in Haywood by the Waynesville Lions Club.

Miss Boston told her: "You are exactly the person whose picture should be painted." She hesitated, and then continued:

"Or, I think it would be better to erect a beautiful monument with you on it to remind everyone that there really has been a you and that your work has influenced many boys and girls, and helped start them in the right paths."

"We young ones," she said, "have always been proud of Miss Smith not only because she does everything for us and does it just right—but because she's so pretty."

Then she added: "So I'm thanking you for being pretty, too, Miss Smith."

Underlining the importance of the agent's work, Mr. McCracken declared:

"If we had only the agricultural department without the home side, I'm afraid we wouldn't get very far with it."

"I'm here to thank Miss Smith, for the mer."

"She is the most outstanding lady we know."

The veteran farmer paid his respects, also, to the agricultural extension workers in the county, saying Haywood has "some of the best workers" he's ever known.

When Mrs. Ketter adjourned the meeting shortly after the gift was presented, many of the women of the audience came forward to greet Miss Smith personally.

It was probably just a trick of nature. But when Miss Smith hurried out to attend the tea, the courtroom seemed to get a little darker.

Series Of Meetings Are Set For Communities

Community Development Program meetings have been scheduled for East, Center, and West Pigeon Communities.

At 7:30 P. M. tomorrow night (Friday), citizens of the Center Pigeon Community will meet at Long's Methodist church to complete the organization of their program.

On Monday night at 7:30 P. M., citizens of West Pigeon and East Pigeon Communities will meet at the Bethel Schoolhouse for the same purpose.

At each of these meetings, officers will be elected and committees appointed for the various farm and home enterprises and goals that the respective communities will work on. The announcement came from County Agent Wayne Corpening and Assistant Agent W. L. Franklin.

They advised that the sooner the Community Development Program is organized "the sooner you will be able to get phosphate."

These examples were given of committees being appointed in other communities: beef cattle, dairy cattle, fruits and vegetables, forestry, tobacco, poultry, community improvement, health, food and nutrition, legumes and cover crops, home ground beautification, citizenship, church and grounds improvement, pasture, clothing, and home furnishings, as well as others.

"You might be thinking over the needs of your community," they added, "and come to this meeting to make suggestions, help appoint the committees, and set the goals."

The announcement continued: "For the program to work as it should and the community to make the most progress, every person in the community should take a part."

"The success of the program and the progress of the community depend entirely on the community and the people."

"For the sake of progress and better rural living in your community, let us urge you to be present at the meeting."

"Don't depend on your neighbor to look after your interest."

Pigeon Group To Meet Friday 7:30

The Center Pigeon community will meet at Long's Methodist church Friday, April 1 at 7:30, for the purpose of organizing and launching its Community Development Program.

The community includes all of Pigeon valley East of Pigeon River from Canton to the forks of Pigeon River. This meeting was originally scheduled for Spring Hill school, but has been transferred to the Long's church.

Every resident of this community is urged to be present. The ladies of the church are serving supper beginning at 6:00 o'clock, and anyone wishing to do so may purchase their supper there.
