Hints For Farm Home Makers

A light starch always gives frilly accessories a crisp look. If the accessories require a very stiff finish use a "cold water" starch. Wrap in a towel and iron while quite damp. Iron laces and pieces with embroidery from the wrong side. The embroidery will stand out even clearer if ironed on a turkish towel.

Leather buttons or belts will look newer and brighter if they are rubbed with saddle soap, which may be obtained at drug stores.

Fur trimming is not generally found on basic dresses, not the kind we would attempt to wash anyhow. But the white lapin or lamb's wool found on house-slippers, mittens, children's clothes and even negligees can be washed in lukewarm water and mild suds. Don't squeeze or wring as they may break the leather skin under the fur, but pat the water out between a towel and dry in the sun or near a fan. Fluff the fur as it dries.

Some foods, such as fish, make a pan smell disagreeable. This is because food oils which cling to the pan have a tendency to hold in the food odors. Baking soda can emulsify the oils and remove this odor quickly and effectively. It can sweeten sour types of odors, too.

To remove the odors, soak utensil with baking soda solution (3 tablespoons of baking soda to a quart of water). Follow this procedure by washing in hot soapy water. Rinse and dry.
