Negro Students Picket North Carolina Capitol

Students from the law school of North Carolina College in Durham, picketed the state capitol in Raleigh, N. C., because the state has not provided the college with a law building and a law library which are necessary for accrediting by the American Bar Association. State officials said appropriations for creating the buildings already have been made. (AP Photo).

Re-Examination Of Drivers Still In Force In State

Despite information to the contrary, the program calling for re-examination of drivers in North Carolina is continuing in force. Major Sam L. Gaynor, assistant director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, pointed out today.

DOG TRIED FOR LIFE AS 'NUISANCE'

FACING A POSSIBLE death sentence, or life-long exile from his neighborhood, "Dixie," a 6-year-old shaggy Newfoundland, has been placed on trial in the Town Hall of Weymouth, Mass. Following a petition for his destruction, signed by 28 neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Neal A. Baker, scores of other residents in the neighborhood have come to the defense of the dog, branded as a "nuisance."
