John Moody, internationally known financial expert of New York, told Rotarians here Friday that he took "an optimistic view on a slight recession which would tend to deflate present prices."

"A slowing up of business is a best stabilization of our economy," he continued, as he reviewed the financial trends over the past century.

"Our economic cycles have usually run about 20 to 25 years of good times, then a slump," he pointed out. "That picture was true up to World War One. Now there are many things that enter into the picture that tend to change this."

"We came out of the first World War with a 25 billion national debt. We came out of the last war with a national debt of 250 billions. This makes a lot of difference."

Mr. Moody, who has spent 59 years on Wall Street as a financial expert, said there was more fear in New York about a third World War than his offices abroad reported existed in Europe.

A head of an investment service, he said never rates open stocks, but deals in bonds of municipalities, utilities, railroads and other public corporations.

Mr. and Mrs. Moody are visiting their niece, Mrs. Douglas Grant, and Mr. Grant. He concluded his talk at the Rotary Club by saying: "I am only 81—when I get old enough to retire, I am going to seriously consider Waynesville, it is a beautiful little city."

ARRESTS SHOULD BE MADE

Editor The Mountaineer:

I was very much interested last week in your "Voice of the People." Who is it that litters up our pretty town anyway? I think it would help, to strike at the head of this senseless nuisance. It is a misdemeanor, surely, and if our officials would watch for these "trash-throwers," and there fine them $1.00 for each offense it would bring in more revenue than the parking meters.

I saw a beautiful young woman toss a paper cup from a car—and I saw an intelligent-looking man throw down a part of a newspaper—both of them on Main Street. Arrests and fines would soon break up this filthy practice.

MRS. W. T. CRAWFORD.

Lions Hear Pleas For Support Of School Bonds

Two school officials last Thursday night asked the members of the Waynesville Lions Club to vote in favor of the proposed $250,000 school bond issue in the June 4 election.

Both members of the club, spoke impromptu at the regular meeting at the Towne House.

C. E. Weatherby, principal of Waynesville Township high school, declared:

"If something isn't done (about improving the school buildings in the county) I don't know where your children will go to school."

Pointing out that school buildings throughout the county need repairs badly, he said the money from the bond issue, if approved, would be "a step forward."

If the state's voters express favor for the issue, Haywood county will get $280,000 of the money, in addition to the regular $250,000 appropriation for the next two fiscal years.

Hazelwood School Principal Lawrence Leatherwood told the audience that this county and other counties need school buildings.

On the lighter side of the program, three Waynesville Township high school girls showed why the judges had such a tough time picking the winner of the speaking contest held here by the Waynesville Woman's Club.

Introduced by High School Band Director Charles Isley, the girls gave applause-provoking demonstrations of dramatic talent.

Nancy Floyd delivered a humorous monologue, Judy Roberts gave a dramatic interpretation of Alice Duer Miller's "White Cliffs," and Betty Gibson interpreted the role of Curley's wife in John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men."

Before the meeting closed, it was announced that the club's nominating committee would report at the regular May 19 session.

Nominations from the floor will be made then for next year's club officers.

Outfielder George Stone of St. Louis led the American League batters in 1906 with 358, the only rookie ever to top the circuit's hitters.
