11 Pounds Of Good Eating

The three bass shown here weighed over 11 pounds and were pulled out of Fontana by James Henson, left, and Jack Stewart, of Route 2. Canton, Mr. Henson caught the  $6^{\rm t}_{\rm -4}$  pound bass which was  $23^{\rm t}_{\rm -2}$ inches long, and Stewart caught a 2-pound and 3-pounder. The eatch was made about 11 o'clock in the day, during a high wind, on Panther Creek. A branch minnow was used in catching the large bass, and minnows and a lizard was used for the two smaller fish. The two smaller fish put up a much harder fight than the large one, the fishermen said. Stewart is a carpenter and Henson works at Enka. The mouth of the 6-pound fish was so large a man could get his fist in the mouth without touching the sides.
