

Many People Arriving At Lake Junaluska For Season; Big Year Seen

With advancing summer, new arrivals are enlivening the scene at Lake Junaluska. Assembly and many vacationists are registering at hotels and cottage owners are opening homes for the season.

The J. B. Iveys of Charlotte have opened their summer home, Iveycrest, and Mr. Ivey is busy putting his famous dahlia garden in order.

Mrs. Ladd M. Spivey and son William, of Southern College, Lakeland, Fla., are a tallied in their summer home, as are the C. C. Norton family of Wofford College, Spartanburg. The Dr. Elmer T. Clark are occupying their home, Amen Corner, and Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Hawkins, Bishop Paul B. Kern and family of Nashville have opened their home, Rev. Eugene Purcell and family, Burlington, N. C., are at Cheerio Cottage until November.

Arriving for the season, Mr. Ben M. Pulliam and daughter and grandson Mrs. Sam C. Banks and Sam Banks, Jr., of Lakeland, Fla., are registered at the Terrace Hotel. Mrs. Grady Haddon and son James, also of Lakeland, are in their home, "Golden Hours," Dr. and Mrs. Roland Hill, St. Louis, Mo., are registered at Sunset.

Mrs. Walter Herbert, Sr., and members of the Herbert clan are settled for the summer at the Herbert home, Carlisle Cottage, on the second terrace. Mrs. Herbert was the surprised person the other morning when R. W. Lowery of Greenville, S. C., salesman for the Easterly Motor Company, drove up in a new Dodge four-door sedan, a gift to Mrs. Herbert, 84, from her brother, Alliston G. Furman, Sr., at Greenville. Dr. and Mrs. B. R. Wilbur of Orlando, Fla., have opened their summer home, as have also Dr. and Mrs. Nat Harrison of High Point.

The various permanent organizations on the grounds are getting under way. Bert Ishee of High Point recreation director, has arrived and is supervising the setting up of athletic fields and swimming facilities. Assisting him are Richard Crowder and Jerry Crawford of High Point, life guards.

The gate force has been organized with the following young men in charge: James Hamilton, Orlando, Fla.; Nat Harrison, High Point; Edman Palmore, Duke University; Howard Norton, Spartanburg, S. C.; Walter Noel of Nashville, Tenn., has charge of moving picture machine and public address system, and David Herbert of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., of boating. James and Joe Hart of Abingdon, Va., are running the Soda Shop; J. E. Grenell, Daytona Beach, Fla., has opened the Kodak Shop, and Mrs. M. Leo Rippey and Mrs. Wilbur Young of Nashville, Tenn., are managing the Gift Shop in the Boat House.

Daily new arrivals and new activities indicate a banner season. "Busy" is the word for Lake Junaluska at this time.

Library Notes

County Librarian MARGARET JOHNSTON

HAMILTON—Steel Mirror

Chemist John Emmett quickly learns that his pick-up, Ann Nicholson, with whom he is hitching a ride west, presents an irritating mystery—for she is either the victim of unrelenting persecution or a treacherous maniac—and definitely not the companion for a safe drive.

DUNLAP—And Ride Forth Singing

Postwar France with its conflicts and readjustments is background for a love story set in the same little village featured in the author's "Once There Was a Village."

GAITHER—Double Muscadine

In the mid 1800's in Mississippi, Syke Berry, son of a poor farmer, was conducting his first law case in defense of a young kitchen slave accused of poisoning the McLean family at Waverly Plantation. His lucky hunch had won an appeal, and in the six months between trials, the novelist reveals the whole fearsome background of life on the plantation to show up the real killer and the motive for the crime.

WARE—Wonderful Mrs. Ingram

The exposure of human frailties of beautiful Mary Ingram by Dr. Gertrude Hanna, psychiatrist, Macy, the writer of best sellers, and Pulitzer prize winner is thought by all, including her family and mother, to be a perfect wife and mother. The eye-opening reveals neglected children, husband and home, and a vain selfish ambitious Mary.

BERNSTEIN—From the City, From the Plough.

The story of a British infantry battalion before and during the invasion of Normandy.

EVANS—Gunman's Legacy

Rancher Tom Martin had seven sons. Six of them were hard working conscientious cowmen, but the seventh was a restless devil-may-care adventurer called Flash. When Martin was shot, his lands were divided into six parts. And the seventh part of his legacy was a six-gun and a charge that Flash should use to avenge his death.

4 Diseases Take Lives Of 4,502 Tar Heels

The State Board of Health reports that more than half the people who died in North Carolina during the first three months of this year succumbed to only four diseases.

These top killers, which claimed 4,502 victims, are heart trouble, apoplexy, cancer and nephritis. These victims were among a total 8,081 who died from one cause or another during the first quarter of 1946.

The total was 493 under the figure for the same period of 1945. Auto accidents killed 226 people in North Carolina—an increase of 46 over the highway death toll of the same period last year.

One bright note in the report, however, was that heart disease claimed fewer people during the 1946 quarter than in the corresponding period last year. Also down was the death rate from nephritis and strokes. However, the cancer mortality rate continued to show an increase.

WON'T LET HIM RETIRE

HENDERSON, Tenn. (UPI)—Dr. F. C. Smith's patients put an end to his desire to retire after half a century of medical practice. The patients swamped his office and the country doctor changed his mind. Smith has delivered 4,000 babies, including 52 sets of twins, in West Tennessee communities.

The State News Bureau has for free distribution 15-minute prints of a color-sound, 16 mm. movie on Wilmington's Azalea Festival.

DE LUXE BUT RESTRICTED

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Mrs. R. J. Barber decided not to take the furnished room in a "de luxe" rooming house, even though utilities were furnished. A sign in the bathroom read: "Baths on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays only."

Dr. Blackard To Speak Tonight At Junaluska

Dr. Embree H. Blackard, Gastonia Methodist pastor, will address an audience tonight at the Lake Junaluska Methodist Assembly auditorium.

Guest minister at yesterday's morning services was the Rev. Wade Weldon of Henderson, Ky. More than 100 young men and women are attending the week-long Youth Caravan Training School which opened Saturday and will run through this Saturday.

They came to the Assembly as more than 300 college student leaders ended a Regional Student Conference sponsored by the Methodist general education board.

Last week, Bishop Paul B. Kern of Nashville, Tenn., made the convocation address, saying that the task of building a world Christian church is up to the younger generation. He advised his audience to accept the responsibility in the field of religion as trained, educated young men and women are coming to the forefront in the realm of the social order.

The new conference which continued its sessions today is to train the young people in preparation for the participation of Youth Caravan teams in promoting Christian life and work in local communities. This program is held in cooperation with pastors and other organized youth movements.

Representatives from states throughout the South are attending the school. Scheduled later this month is a Youth Assembly, scheduled to be held June 27 through July 2 for young people from 17 to 23 years of age.

This and other youth conferences to be held next month will be conducted by the Rev. Carl H. King of Salisbury, executive secretary of youth work for the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference.

On the night of June 14, the Rev. Mr. Weldon will speak again in the auditorium.

During the remainder of this week, religious movies will be shown in the auditorium.

BETTER THAN THEY THOUGHT

INDIANOLA, Miss. (UPI)—One of Uncle Sam's good $1,000 bills changed hands at least half a dozen times before any of its owners realized its value. They all thought it was a $100 bill.

TRAFFIC HAS TO WAIT

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—A young student policeman at St. Mary's School made the most of his authority when he was directing traffic at a busy intersection. He blew his whistle and tied up traffic several minutes while his puppy trotted to the other side.

everybody was bemoaning. Gov. Scott's luck with the Legislature. Let all those individuals bow their heads. No Governor in North Carolina's history has accomplished so much in so little time. Let us give much of the credit to Governor Ross, new head of the Department of Conservation and Development. George Coble of Cable Dam, Products in Lexington, Harry B. Caldwell of Greensboro, manager of the State Grange, the Raleigh News and Observer, Stanford Martin of the Winston-Salem Journal, and E. P. McClendon of Greensboro.

OFF THE CUFF—H. L. Meacham of Asheville, head of the Mixed Farmers Cooperative, is expected to leave this connection and may become the new director of State Prison Farms. A State College graduate, he is former county agent of Iredell and Halifax and before 1930 was the new cooperative a little over two years ago was marketing specialist at State College. He grew up on the Piedmont Experimental Station at Statesville, where his father, F. T. Meacham was superintendent for many years.

A. B. Harless, who is with the Albemarle Peanut Company in Edenton, has been offered an important post in the state Agriculture Department. He is expected to refuse it.
